FIRST DETACHMENT OF ROTARIANS
OFF TO POLAND SPRINGS

Lowell Rotarians and Their Wives Will Attend Annual Conclave—Other Members of Local Rotary Club Will Leave Here Tomorrow Morning

The first detachment of 25 Lowell Rotarians and their wives, planning to attend Rotary International's eighth district first annual convalescence in Poland Springs, Me., Oct. 6, 7, 8 and 9, left the city this afternoon in automobiles heading for the Atlantic shore highway that leads to Portland.

Some of the Saturday early starters will remain in Portland over night, waiting for the coming of the Lowell-remaining Rotarians, who will depart from the Boys' club on Dutton street at 8:30 o'clock, tomorrow morning, heading north for the destination of all eighth district Rotarians who can get away from business next week.

The Sunday travelers will join the Rotarian advance guard in Portland about noon, and will have dinner there together. In the afternoon, there will be golf contests on the

Officials Seize British Steamer With $500,000 Liquor Cargo Aboard—Crew of 28 Men and Two Women Under Armed Guard—$10,000,000 Involved

NEW YORK, Oct. 4.—Prohibition officials claimed to have uncovered a gigantic Anglo-American rum running conspiracy with $10,000,000 involved, when they towed into harbor today the twin screw British steamer "Frederick B." with its crew of 28 men and two women under armed guard, and with a $500,000 liquor cargo aboard.

Five special government agents, under the leadership of William A. Walker, of Washington, general field superintendent of the dry forces, made the capture after they had, according to Mr. Walker, dickered for the purchase

TRUNK SEWER TO THE SEA

Lowell Assessed $4586.28 for Preliminary Plans for Trunk Sewer

The board of assessors today received from the office of the state treasurer a request that $4586.28 be assessed and collected to pay for Lowell's share of work by the state board of health on the preliminary plans for the proposed trunk sewer from Lowell to the sea. The request, signed by George B. Willard, deputy treasurer, arrived far too late for the assessors to include the amount in this year's levy and a meeting of the board will be called to determine the action to be taken. The money will probably be provided from the overlay fund.

Success of Walter Johnson and His Cohorts in Giving Washington First Chance to Compete in World Series Turns Capital Topsy-Turvy With JoyNotable Gathering Assembles in Washington for Opening Game of 1924 Baseball Classic

GRIFFITH STADIUM, Washington, Oct. 4.—A world series in the national capital, a dream of baseball fandom, came true this afternoon when the Washington Senators, newly crowned champions of the American league, clashed with the New York Giants, four-time successive winners of the National league in the first game of the annual October baseball classic.

With President Coolidge throwing out the ball and some 35,000 spectators cheering the home folks, all Washington seemed tilted over on the official car.

Even the shadow of the Glantz bribery scandal was all but forgotten when Walter Johnson swung into action on the hurling hill.

"Just the day for the game," said Roger Peckinpaugh, Washington shortstop, "and enough heat to get his old wing working right. I've seen the Glantz before, a fine team, of course, but we have beaten other good clubs all year. Why not the Glantz?"

John McGraw, manager of the Glantz, kept his pitching selection for the day under cover, but his players figured it would be either McQuillan or Neft.

The diamond and outer gardens were in perfect condition and lightning fast. The crowd got its real kick of the day when the huffman, Nick Altrock, with a trick hat and Al Schacht, led the band across the playing field and did their latest comedy turns.

Ovation for Johnson
Johnson received a tremendous ovation when he arrived at the stadium. "I'm feeling fine," declared the speed king, "and ready to pitch the game of my life, because I know that everybody is pulling for me."

Lightly the heavy report that this is his afternoon. He seemed just like

MAN AND GIRL INJURED IN AUTO ACCIDENT

In an automobile accident just beyond Chelmsford Centre on the Littleton Road about 2:30 o'clock this afternoon, William P. Jennings of Billerica and a girl friend were injured in the car in which they were riding having been hit by a limousine driven by Joseph Normand of 222 Moody street, this city. The latter was arrested for drunkenness by the Westford police.

Three men who were with Normand in the limousine, escaped in the woods. The extent of the man's and girl's injuries were not definitely known but were said not to be serious. The arrest of Normand was made by Officers John Sullivan of Westford and David Adams of Chelmsford.

Love of the grand old game of baseball reached out today and brought together in the nation's capital the most notable gathering ever assembled for world series.

The spirit of the old rivalry apparently had filtered into all walks of life in making up the crowd on hand to see Washington's first American league pennant winning team clash with the New York Giants.

President Coolidge, members of the cabinet and others high in official life temporarily put aside the nation's business to turn out and join with the thousands of just ordinary fans.

Those who hadn't heard the bat crack for 20 years seemed overnight to gain the enthusiasm of the fan who rooted all summer, either at the ball park or the corner scoreboard. Old-timers of the game were just as eager as the youngsters, in speculating on the final outcome of the series.

Scalpers, despite the efforts of internal revenue agents and the city police, plied to and fro in the crowd doing a thriving business. Many fans arriving in the city from distant points were willing to pay the exorbitant prices that were being asked as were a few local rogues who caught the spirit too late to secure tickets otherwise.

Betting on the play, however, seemed for some unexplained reason to be conspicuous by its absence. While wagers were heard of here and there, usually at even money, there was an intangible something in the air—no one seemed to know just what—that rather put a damper on the usual curb bidding.

A mushroom four feet in circumference, and five pounds in weight, was found in the woods near Chateaufort, France.

SEN. BROOKHART BOLTS G. O. P.

Throws Down Gauntlet to National and State Repub-

Attacks Records of Pres.
Coolidge and Gen. Dawes
—Repudiates Party

DES MOINES, Ia., Oct. 4.—(By the Associated Press)—Senator Smith W. Brookhart yesterday threw down the gauntlet to the national and state republican organizations with an attack on the records of President Coolidge and Charles G. Dawes, the republican nominees for president and vice-president, and in doing so announced "a repudiation of and bolt from the republican party," according to a report of the Iowa republican central committee.

The committee's report declared that the senator had by his public utterances made a self-imposed bolt from the party.

This bolt, the report said, was the "result of a conspiracy to defeat the right of the people to elect a president at the polls," thereby throwing the election into congress.

"It is our belief," the report continued, "that this action on the part of Senator Brookhart has been inspired by the heads of the La Follette party for the malicious purpose of attempting to turn the attention of

New Method of Reducing Fat

Here's joyful news for every fleshy person who loves good things to eat—especially those who are denying themselves the things they like most because of their desire to keep down their weight or to reduce the fat with which they are already burdened.

The famous Marmola Prescription has been put up in convenient tablet form and is now sold by druggists everywhere at only one dollar per box. To get rid of fat steadily and easily, simply take one of these little tablets after each meal and at bedtime until you have reduced your weight to where you want it. No wrinkles or sabbiness will remain to show where the fat came off.

Simply use Marmola Prescription Tablets according to directions. They are pleasant and easy to take. No rules or special regulations—just the regular use of the tablets. Try them for just a few weeks and get results without going through long sieges of useless exercise and starvation diet. Get them at any good drug store. If your druggist should not have them in stock you can secure them direct from the Marmola Company, General Motors Building, Detroit, Mich., by sending one dollar. Thousands of men and women each year regain healthy, slender figures this way.—ADV.

While the committee was still debating its course, Senator Brookhart was delivering his address at Emmet's burg, in which he attacked the president and explained the points of issue between President Coolidge and himself. He departed from his set speech only to include a statement he made public earlier in the day in which he again called upon the republican national committee to ask for the resignation of Mr. Dawes.

LA FOLLETTE READY FOR EXTENDED TOUR

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.—Facing four weeks of strenuous campaigning, Senator La Follette, independent presidential candidate, devoted himself today to the preparation of speeches he will deliver on the tour which is expected to take him to the coast and to the discussion of itineraries with his advisors.

Aboard a special car, which will be his home during his month of travel, the Wisconsin senator is scheduled to leave Washington tomorrow night for Rochester, N. Y., where he will resume active campaigning by addressing a rally Monday night. A week later will find him in Kansas City, whence he will journey to St. Louis. His itinerary after the St. Louis meeting has not been determined.

La Follette headquarters issued a statement today by Harold L. Ickes, state chairman of the progressive party in Illinois in 1912, declaring that if La Follette does not represent the political ideas of the Bull Moose party "certainly no other individual or political group does." It criticized the group of Roosevelt followers, who recently joined in protesting against the use of the word "progressive" by the La Follette forces.

WAS RUN DOWN AND NERVOUS

This Vermont Woman Highly Recommends the Remedy That Restored Her to Health

We do not give much thought to our nervous system when it is working all right but when it goes wrong nature has a way of calling it forcibly to our attention by something we cannot overlook—pain.

Try to reach a painful nerve with medicine of any sort and you are confronted with the fact that every doctor knows, that the only way to reach the nerves is through the blood.

The case of Mrs. H. L. Soper, of No. 43 Summer street, Montpelier, Vt., is similar to those of a great many others who will be interested to learn how she not only stopped drawing upon her reserve force but restored her vital energy.

"I was badly run down, and nervous," says Mrs. Soper, "and I became exhausted easily while doing my work. My stomach was weak and I suffered greatly from indigestion, the distress continuing into the night when it was almost impossible for me to get any rest."

"My mother recommended Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to me as she had taken them with benefit. After taking two boxes of the pills my nervousness disappeared and I regained my strength so that I no longer feel exhausted at my work. I sleep well at night and can eat almost anything. I consider Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a great tonic and always keep them on hand as a family remedy. I have recommended Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to many of my friends."

These pills are a tonic for the blood and nerves. They correct nervous dyspepsia because they revitalize the nerves that control the digestive processes. They are also useful in sick and nervous headache, neuralgia, sciatica and neuritis.

Get a sixty-cent box of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills from your own druggist today and write to the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y., for a copy of the free booklet, "Diseases of the Nervous System."—ADV.

DECREASE IN FATAL AUTO ACCIDENTS

BOSTON, Oct. 4.—A marked decrease in the number of fatal automobile accidents in Massachusetts for the month of September as compared with the corresponding month last year is noted in a report made public today by Frank A. Goodwin, registrar of motor vehicles.

"Notwithstanding an increased registration of approximately 104,000 cars, there were only 65 persons killed in the state this year as compared with 75 last year," the report said. "But for the unfortunate accident at Fort Point channel which claimed five lives, and the one at the railroad crossing in Fall River in which three were killed, the record would have been truly remarkable."

The registrar gave credit for the decrease in fatal accidents to increased activity of police departments in enforcing the law and to the intensive campaign against bad headlights and brakes. During the month 1,665 licenses and registrations were suspended and revoked as compared with 1,394 for Sept., 1923.

FORMAL NOTIFICATION OF GOVERNOR SMITH

SCHENECTADY, N. Y., Oct. 4.—The democracy of New York State turned the political spotlight on Schenectady today, for tonight in the state theater, Governor Alfred E. Smith and his running mates on the democratic state ticket were to be notified officially of their nomination.

John R. Sullivan, chairman of the Erie county democratic committee, will make the speech of notification. Governor Smith then will deliver his address of acceptance, which is regarded as the keynote speech of the gubernatorial campaign. Lieutenant-Governor George R. Lunn and the other candidates will make brief addresses.

GEN. DAWES RESTS BEFORE LONG TRIP

FORT WAYNE, Ind., Oct. 4.—(By the Associated Press)—His third mid-western tour completed with an address here last night, Charles G. Dawes, republican vice-presidential nominee, left early today for Chicago. He plans to rest until Sunday and then depart on the most extended speaking trip he yet has undertaken.

The trip will cover ten days and take him as far west as Wyoming, mostly through territory regarded by republican leaders as the seat of chief strength of the La Follette movement as an effort to swing the American government from its constitutional moorings.

CLUB CITIZENS-AMERICANS
An enjoyable social, and the second in a series of entertainments to be given during the winter by Club Citizens-Americans was held last evening in the club room in Middle street. About 100 couples enjoyed the affair, the feature of the evening being general dancing. The members of the amusement committee are: Chairman, Fernando Lagasse, James Lavallee, Leon Charbonneau, Hervé Gaudette, Joseph Dubuque and Emilio Lagasse.

COLUMBUS DAY PLANS OF FOURTH DEGREE

The opening feature of the Columbus day exercises in this city will be held in St. Michael's church on Sunday, Oct. 12, when the members of Bishop Delany assembly, fourth degree, will observe their annual communion Sunday, a yearly custom with the organization.

Rev. James P. Lynch, faithful friar of the organization, has designated the hour as 8 o'clock and the members will march from the K. of C. rooms in the Harrington building at 7.30 o'clock. The march of the parade will be John C. McQuaid, faithful pilot. At the church a special program will be rendered by the K. of C. choir under the direction of Edward P. Slattery, Jr. After mass, a communion breakfast will be served in Marle's restaurant. Appropriate exercises will be held after the breakfast.

The members of the assembly will parade with regulation morning dress, baldric, sword and sash and undoubtedly will make an impressive showing. Rev. P. Lynch is hopeful of the largest attendance in years.

In the afternoon about 12.30 the members will leave for Newburyport for the purpose of participating in the parade to be held there on Sunday. Afternoon of the day, B. O'Connor is chairman of the Columbus day committee of Bishop Delany assembly, and is being assisted in the arrangements by the following: John J. Allen, Edward J. Tighe, Patrick A. Powers, John C. McQuaid, Rick J. Navin, Charles J. Sorley, Daniel A. Powers, Frank J. Higgins, Cleon O'Neil, William J. Rogers, and Michael J. Quinn. This committee will meet Tuesday evening at 8.30 o'clock. As the assembly is now one of the largest in the state there is every expectation that the attendance on Sunday will be very large.

of whom will sleep forever in French soil.

Military Color to Program

There was military color to this program, however, for when the flag was out from the shadow of the capital, it was regular troops of the First division as it is today which led the van. They were brought from the post to share in the ceremony, a co-mingled regiment of infantry with many a veteran still in its ranks, and a regiment of artillery where some of the men about the guns were the same who served in those wild, terrible days "over there." At their head was Brigadier General Frank Parker, one of the six war-time commanders of the division.

As escort of honor, troops of the District of Washington had been chosen. There were in line also the men no longer in the army, but whose proud honors is that they served with "the old flag" in France. And with them, under guard of honor, marched the matted battle flags carried in France. They were brought out from the treasure possessions of the regimental regiments at which they still fly, to be present at the last grand post to dead comrades.

Brave Figure of Victory

The memorial, a noble granite column supporting a great bronze figure of Victory, stands just south of the State War and Navy building with wide reaches of open lawn and clustering, tree shaded gardens all about. The great steps of the building behind look down like the seats of an amphitheatre on the scene, and they were close crowded with the thousands drawn to do honor with these marching veterans to their dead.

Fired First American Shot

Beyond the veterans, Battery C, 6th artillery, that same battery which fired the first American shot in the war, had a special place to unlimber its guns and await the signal to fire the national salute for its dead.

The program of services of dedication was as simple as the lives of the men whose devotion to the death it extolled. Chaplain Henry R. Talbot of the division was called to pronounce the invocation, Colonel Adolphus Huebner was asked to tell of the making of the memorial, paid for by the veterans themselves and their friends, and a hero of heroes from the ranks of the division, Private Daniel R. Edwards, winner of the Medal of Honor and the Distinguished Service Cross, was selected to draw aside the great flags that shrouded the completed structure as the muffled bands played The Star Spangled Banner.

On the speaking program were Major General Charles P. Summerall, President Coolidge and Dr. Murray Bartlett of the Young Men's Christian association, who was attached to the division in France.

Tomorrow the veterans will march to Arlington on a pilgrimage in honor of the Unknown Soldier sleeping there, who may, perhaps, be one of themselves. There will be fitting services at the tomb to conclude the reunion of the first division of American troops to reach France, and thereafter to lead the way through the great struggle to victory.

Written in bronze on great tablets under the shadow of a tall stone shaft, the roll of honor of the dead of the First Division, American Expeditionary Forces, with its more than 5,000 names of those who died in France, forms a fitting pedestal for the time-defying tribute to their gallantry raised by living comrades.

The memorial, majestic in its simplicity, springs from a wide stone base just over the road from the grey old bulk of the State War and Navy building. It is set on a wide lawn that leads away in an evergreen carpet to the snoozing frowning Potomac, just beyond. All about stand clusters of trees that break the monotony of the great green expanse, and over these, in telling unborn generations of American valor and glory, peer the sky-pointing masts of Washington monument and the distant, stately grandeur of Lincoln Memorial.

Far away, beyond the river, framed among the crowding greens and first autumnal tints that deck the Virginia hills, stands the Memorial Amphitheatre at Arlington cemetery, in its serene sleeping in lonely glory on the wide terrace, that the unknown comrade keeps his endless watch. It may be that his name is written among those thousands clustering on the great tablets of the First Division dead. None will ever know for it is his greatest glory that he sleeps unknown.

It is no spirit of mourning that has prompted the veterans of the First Division to pay this honor to their dead. There is no hint of sorrow in the fashioning of a soldier tribute to fallen comrades. It is raised in calm acceptance of the fact that each brave American holds their lives too great a price to pay that their countrymen down the years may live always as free and liberty-loving sons of the flag.

There is a graphic portrayal of that code in the pose of the winged figure of victory that tops the slender granite shaft of the memorial. It stands with the bronze wrought folds of the flag for which these gallant dead fell, swept aloft in the lifted right hand. It is poised as though to soar forward again in a moment, forward toward the great vision of high destiny that shines before the lifted, exalted gaze. And as it passes, her above the fallen, the left hand is spread downward in proud benediction as though the winged figure would say to those whose names are scrolled below: "Well done, then good and faithful servant."

Inset in the square stone work at the base of the shaft itself are the names of French villages and rivers that are now enshrined among the proudest memories of Americans. They form the simple record of the battle fought over which the First Division found its way, on which fell the 5,666 men whose names are engraved below on the tablet. Sommeville, Amiensville, Cantigny, Monidiller-Noyon, Solsona-Aisne, Marne, St. Mihiel, Meuse-Arzonne, Sedan, the names run, each hallowed in American blood for the American blooded there, the high valor and dauntless resolution to press on toward victory that Americans carried with them through the grim struggles. Then comes the last entry, "Coblenz Bridgehead," the written symbol of the great victory.

Over on another face of the alone world runs the legend of the First Division Association, pointing out that the memorial is to those comrades "who gave their lives in the World War for liberty and the ideals of our country might endure." And on still another, taken from General Order 201, American Expeditionary Forces, is written when the Division fought its way into history at Cantigny, it stirred in all hearts new hope and courage, because American fighting manhood had again proven itself to make certain ultimate victory, in General Pershing's proud word of approval:

"The commander-in-chief has noted in this division a special pride of service and a high state of morale never broken by hardships nor battle. In form the memorial is a simple column that lifts the honor point of the flag nearly 80 feet above the ground level. It is of light colored granite surrounded by a square stone proportioned to the column below, and which forms the pedestal for the heroic Victory figure, helmeted and with flowing graceful draperies that with the lifted wings, give it a hint of life and motion that sweeps away any suggestion of sorrow."

PRES. COOLIDGE SPEAKS AT DEDICATION

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.—In the presence of the veterans of the First Division of the American Expeditionary Forces, President Coolidge dedicated a monument to their dead here today, as a "lesson of the supreme blessing of peace with honor, a symbol of stern warning."

The peace now established must be nourished, the president declared, in this country's international relations. The constitution itself must still be defended, he said, to preserve individual freedom through non-interference with the rights of government monopolies in business.

While recalling his wish for American membership in the world court and further disarmament, the president warned in reference to the country's international relations that "we do not propose to entrust to any other power, or combination of powers, any authority to make up our own mind for us."

Thousands of veterans of the World War were gathered at the base of the newly erected monument to the First Division while General Pershing, joined with the president in eulogizing the part played by the First Division in the war.

Tracing the history of the First Division, "the first to enter France and the last to leave Germany," Mr. Coolidge recalled its 566 deaths and 7,000 wounded, its part in the battles at Sommeville, Solsona, St. Mihiel and finally in the Argonne.

"The little that I can say," he added, "in commemoration of your division is but a slight suggestion of what is deserved. Every unit of the American army whether at home or abroad, richly merits its own full measure of recognition. They shrink from no toil, from no danger and no hardship, that the liberties of our country might adequately be defended and preserved."

Discussing the national obligations to its war veterans, the president reiterated that its first duty was the care of the disabled and dependents. For these, he declared, the government had been most liberal, mentioning the hospitalization program, the rehabilitation program, the 40,000 acres now and 50,000 others "who have completed these courses and have been placed in profitable employment," and the pension laws for widows and mothers.

The nation has appropriated about $300,000,000 for veterans of the World War and is spending another $100,000,000 annually for veterans of the Civil War. Mr. Coolidge said, but added that the "abiding honor which America bestows upon its loyal defenders cannot be measured in money."

A debt which never repaid, he said, but which it will never repudiate, president said, "standing to their credit will forever be an inextinguishable balance of gratitude of honor and of praise. In song and story, in monument and memorial, in tradition and history, they will live in the hearts of the people forevermore."

In his discussion of international affairs, Mr. Coolidge pointed to the accomplishments of the Dawes plan in promoting the revival of Europe, which he said plays a firmer foundation for industrial prosperity and a more secure peace.

"We want to see the nation paid," he continued, "we want to see Germany restored to a condition of productivity and progress, under which the world will be able to take up the burden of civilization."

"I am in favor of treaties and covenants conforming to the American policy of independence to prevent aggressive war and promote permanent peace. But they have little value unless the sentiment of peace is cherished in the hearts of the people. Peace is the result of mutual understanding and mutual confidence, exemplified in honorable action."

"We cannot claim that under our institutions we have reached perfection. Our institutions are the best for the promotion of human welfare, but the ingenuity of man has ever been able to devise. We cannot claim that our government is perfect, but we have the right to believe that it is the best that there is. We do not claim full duty towards the other nations of the earth, but we have a right to believe that we have been the most effective agency in helping to restore Europe."

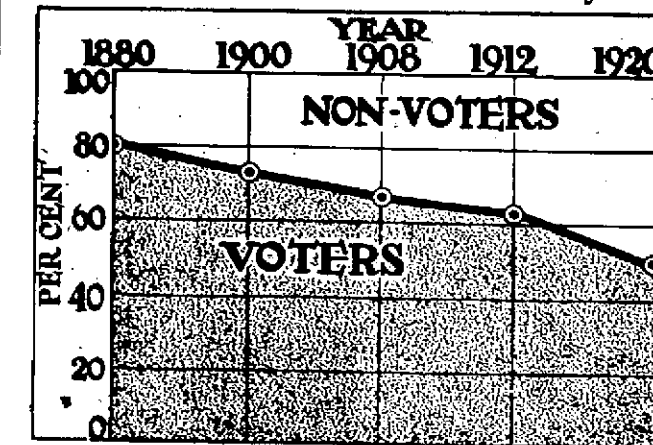

"If anyone doubts the depth and sincerity of the attachment of the American people to their institutions, let them gaze on this monument and let them look upon the representative shrouds of our veterans and let them remember that America has dedicated itself to the service of God and man."

"I am well aware that it is impossible to maintain in time of peace the same exalted spirit of patriotism that exists in time of war and yet, although it may be in a lesser degree, the country has need of devotion to the same ideals. In our land the people often repeated that this nation is exactly what the people make it. It is necessary to realize that our duties are personal. For each of us our country will be about what we make it. The obligation of citizenship is upon each one of us. We must discharge it in the actions of our daily life. If we are employed we must be true to that employment. If we are in business we must be true to that business."

"What is always of the utmost importance, if we have the privilege to vote we must inform ourselves of the questions at issue and go into the ballot box on election day, there vote as we claim, the sacred right of Americans to live, according to the dictates of our own conscience. You who have offered your blood for the supreme rights and privileges might be maintained as a standard of human conduct on this earth must continue to be their chief exponents by what they say and by what you do. The coming generations will reverence your example."

"In this presence I am well aware there is no need to urge any support of the American constitution, but I cannot let this occasion pass without expressing my most strong and emphatic commendation for the reverence which your words and action constantly express for the liberty giving provisions of the fundamental law of our land. You have supported the constitution and the flag which is its symbol, not only because it represents that of the homeland, but because you know it is the safeguard of American freedom. You want your rights protected by the impartial judicial decisions of the courts, where you will have a right to be heard and state exposed to the irresponsible determination of partisan political action. You want to have your earnings and your property secure. You want a free and fair opportunity to conduct your own business and make your way in the world without danger of being overcome by a government monopoly. When the government goes into business, it lays a tax on everybody else in that business and uses the money that it collects from its competitors to establish a monopoly and drive them out of business. No one can compete when the government really starts into a line of business that where opportunity is closed to the people. It has always been an American ideal that the door of opportunity should remain open."

Voting Decreases Steadily

In the last presidential election, barely more than 50 per cent of people entitled to vote went to the polls and cast ballots. In 1880 about 80 per cent of eligible voters voted. The figure dropped to 73 per cent in 1900, to 66 in 1908, to 62 in 1912, then nearly to 50 in 1920. Note the steady decline. We are approaching government by minority.

PROBABLE CAUSE FOUND RAIN HALTS FIRING ON IN LOCAL HOTEL CASE SHANGHAI FRONT

Verbal tilts between Federal Agent Walter H. Sullivan and Attorney Daniel J. Donahue that developed to such an extent that more than once U. S. Commissioner R. R. Walsh stopped proceedings and said that such expressions of personal opinion would not be heard in his court, featured the hearing of the Belvidere hotel case of the Garban street court house today.

After three federal agents and two Lowell liquor squad officers had given testimony and the hearing had extended over a period of nearly two hours, Commissioner Walsh found probable cause and ordered the defendant, William Kelley, held in bonds of $500 for the United States district court.

Attorney Donahue charged federal officers with "sidestepping" his questions and with testifying only to such things as would build up the government's case. "The trouble with you officers," said Mr. Donahue at one point of the discussion, "is that you are trying to be judges as well as witnesses."

The warrant against Kelley charged that on Sept. 13 he sold to Federal Agent Bowditch a drink of distilled spirits. Raising officers in addition to Bowditch were Agents Sullivan and Hall and Patrolmen Alfred J. Killey and William Keegan of the Lowell department.

Agent Bowditch testified that he was seated at a table in the back room of the hotel at 9 a. m. on Sept. 12. He paid 35 cents for it, he said. The drink was poured out of a bottle the defendant took from his pocket and the drink he secured was the best that there is. He said that Kelley denied he had sold him the drink, when asked by Agent Sullivan.

FOR - ADJUSTMENT OF WAGES DOWNWARD

BROCKTON, Oct. 4.—Arbitration panels, requesting an adjustment of wages downward were heard by the business agents of the Sole Leather Workers and Dressers and Packers this morning.

Monday has been set for the state board hearing of the cases of the cutlers and skivers at the state house. To date six unions have been asked to accept a reduction of wages.

NEW TERRITORY
FOR INSURED MAIL

Effective immediately, insured mail for points in Great Britain and northern Ireland will be accepted at the local post office, according to an announcement made today by Postmaster Xavier A. Delisle.

Under the rules for receipt of insured mail for the above countries, all matter must be sealed and postage prepaid. Delivery at its destination is under the postal rules of Great Britain and mail matter upon its arrival overseas immediately becomes subject to the regulations of the country in which it is to be delivered.

In previous years it has been impossible to send insured mail to any country other than Canada, and it is believed that the new regulation will be especially welcomed by persons in this country who have relatives and friends in either Great Britain or northern Ireland, as they may be assured that all parcel post articles mailed from this country will either be delivered or the sender recommended in case the mail matter is lost.

BROKEN WATER PIPE
FLOODS Y. W. C. A.

Yesterday noon a water pipe burst in the top kitchen of the Y.W.C.A. and flooded the lower floors. The dining room was filled at the time and quite a large number had to make a hasty retreat. The damage to ceilings and floors was considerable. Plumbers have been set to work to change over the whole piping system to prevent other breaks of the same kind.

Will Speak Here Monday

He will be escorted immediately after to the American house, where he will be the guest of the Walsh Campaign club at lunch. From 2 o'clock to 4, he will hold a public reception in the parlor of the American house, to which citizens generally are invited to meet him.

About 5 o'clock he will speak at the postoffice in North Billerica and at 6.15 or thereabouts at a central point in North Chelmsford, at a meeting arranged by Mr. John E. Harrington and Lawyer Frank J. Garvey. At 7.15 he will address an audience of French Americans in C.M.A.C. hall, after which he will proceed to Liberty hall at 8 o'clock, where his main address will be delivered. At this meeting Mr. Humphrey O'Sullivan and other speakers will also be heard. Lawyer James E. Markham will preside.

The senator has undertaken to make a whirlwind tour of the state in this way and as he may not have a chance to come here again before the end of the campaign, it is desirable that as many as possible shall embrace the opportunity to hear him and meet him at the reception at the American house.

SCHOLARSHIP FUND
LOWELL TEACHERS' ORGANIZATION
PRESENTS A SERIES OF FOUR CONCERTS
November 12—THE BARBER OF SEVILLE
Opera in English by the MANHATTAN OPERA COMPANY—40 Artists
January 28—KATHERINE TIFT-JONES, Discuse
GEORGIA PRICE, Harpiste
February 25—THE BALALAIKA ORCHESTRA
From the Hotel Plaza, New York
DELLA BAKER.
Soloist with the Detroit, Philadelphia and New York Symphonies Orchestras.

March 26—SUZANNE KEENER
Of the METROPOLITAN OPERA COMPANY, Coloratura Soprano.
These concerts are offered as a means of establishing a SCHOLARSHIP FUND for pupils in the Lowell Public Schools.
In Lowell, as in every industrial city, there are many children of real ability in both the Grammar and the high schools who cannot complete the school course because of lack of funds. A very small sum if assured each week, would be sufficient to keep a child in school until graduation. Many other cities have funds for this purpose, either contributed by private individuals or raised by public appeal.
The Lowell Teachers' Organization asks the same support and co-operation of the community in this cause that Lowell has Always given to worthy enterprises.

THE ENTIRE PROFIT FROM THE SERIES WILL BE DEVOTED TO THE SCHOLARSHIP FUND.

FIRE PREVENTION WEEK
OCTOBER 5-11

BOSTON, Oct. 4.—In an effort to impress upon the public the economic and human aspects of the situation created by needless burning, Governor Chandler H. Cox yesterday issued a proclamation setting apart the period from October 5 to 11 as Fire Prevention week. He says:

"The total fire loss for Massachusetts in 1923 was $19,022,000, an increase of $1,777,000 over the previous year. The per capita loss was $4.84. Of the entire loss for the year, the so-called preventable loss was $17,000,000. The total fire loss for the country was over $500,000,000 last year.

"The enormous economic loss, the frequent loss of life, and the loss of employment, oftentimes entailing misery, are distressing features not revealed by figures. Since the major portion of the loss of human and material wealth could have been avoided by reasonable precautions and proper exercise of care, it is evident that with concerted action this large burden can be lessened.

"That there may be earnest consideration of methods to accomplish such a desirable purpose, I hereby designate and set apart the period from October 5 to 11, inclusive, as Fire Prevention week.

"Civic organizations and the press are urged to join in an effort to impress upon the public the economic and human aspects of the situation created by needless burning. American efficiency should not tolerate such a readily eliminable drain upon our resources."

WINTHROP WOMEN IN
AUTO ACCIDENT HERE

As a result of an automobile accident in outer Gorham street last evening, three Winthrop women, Mrs. Harry Stillwell, Mrs. George Stillwell and Mrs. Elliot Hayes were treated at St. John's hospital for bruises and lacerations and were later sent to their homes.

The accident occurred when the driver of the automobile, Elliot Hayes of Winthrop, lost control of the machine while driving over the section of the roadway under repair and the automobile crashed into a telegraph pole. Passing motorists took the injured women to the hospital. The machine was badly damaged and was towed to a garage for repairs.

ALMA GLUCK COMING TO THE AUDITORIUM

When Alma Gluck, the noted soprano, comes to the Lowell Memorial Auditorium on Tuesday evening, Oct. 14, for one concert, it will be for her second concert of the season, only. It would be hard indeed to have the noted singer in better form than this, and Albert Steiner, who is in direct charge of the Steiner concert series, under whose auspices Madame Gluck comes here, is proud of his achievement.

As a matter of fact, the voice that a decade ago thrilled the vast audiences of the Metropolitan Opera House, is today kept in perfect condition through sparing use. The season involves one of the greatest sacrifices ever made by a living artist. Madame Gluck has two children, from whom she does not want to be separated for very long intervals. Therefore, her extremely short—shorter than probably any other concert singer. It is for this reason that her tour this season will be limited to a few important musical centres. On Sunday, the 12th, Madame Gluck sings in New York. On the 14th she comes here, with no concert in between.

Although born in Rumania, Madame Gluck is in every sense of the word an American, for she has called America home since a small child. She had arrived in music even before she had finished grammar school, and that way, while still young, was a Southerner. She sings "We're Here," and such was the enthusiasm with which she was received that she secured engagement after engagement, and her career since then has been one of success.

Among the greatest of her privileges she regards the opportunity which she secured early, of eight months' training with Mme. Marcelin Sombich as one of the most priceless.

Reservations for the Lowell concert may be made now at the local store of the Steiner Co., in Merrimack street.

Next Week's Bill at Keith's

"Railroad" and it has to do with a lot of funny, happy men who occupy the excited positions of porters. The whole act is a splendid travesty, keyed up to the very top of fun. The trials and tribulations of railway porters in the south are taken advantage of by these two splendid comedians.

"Cost to Cost" is the title name of the act in four scenes which Andrew Davis and Fanny Norton will offer. It was written by Jack Lait, and it outwits anything the versatile and famous Lait ever did before. It is a progressive satire showing the couple in four hostilities, viz.: Ketchikan Hotel, Hotel, Trimmen Hotel and Skinnem Hotel.

Producing laughs is a form of conjuring. Judson Cole is a conjuring comedian, who gives a fine demonstration of the fact that the hand can deceive the eye, although his feats are only to cloak his humor.

"This and That" of Senna & Weber is a choice and careful selection of stories and songs. These two attractive players have style and dash as well as ability, and they are used to advantage in "This and That."

Carl and Valeska, who make about everything they use in their act, give out musical sounds. They sit on a chair and the chair plays, they touch pencils and the pencils play. They handle dishes and there are sweet melodies. It is a thoroughgoing novelty.

"The King of Wild Horses" is the unusual picture feature for the week. It is a drama of a horse's cunning, a man's intrigue and a woman's love, and is unusual in every particular.

Lowell Boy on Navy
Transport Near China
Continued

The western coast of this country for several months. When it became rumored that strife was imminent in the land of the Celestials, the navy department immediately began preparations to send reinforcements to the ships already in Chinese waters and the Chaumont was among those ordered to cross the Pacific to defend the lives and property of American citizens living under the Chinese flag.

Upon her arrival in Chinese waters, the Chaumont was detailed to join the squadron protecting Americans in Shanghai, and as far as is known the transport is still at this station.

Bukowski, rated as a seaman, made the trip across on the transport and is still on duty somewhere in Chinese waters, although there is a possibility that he has been transferred to one of the fighting boats since his arrival and may be doing guard duty in the city of Shanghai.

SENTENCED FOR ATTEMPT TO ROB BANK

PORTLAND, Me., Oct. 4.—George Donald Murray, 37 years old, real estate broker who killed himself with burglar's tools on June 5 and attempted to rifle a vault in the Bridgton National bank, pleaded guilty in superior court yesterday to a secret indictment charging him with breaking, entering and intent to rob and was given an indeterminate sentence to the state reformatory for men at South Windham.

A jury in the United States district court yesterday returned verdicts of not guilty on each count in the case of Frank E. Tibbelen of Auburn, charged with possession and transportation of liquor and conspiracy to violate the national prohibition act.

The alleged offense took place on Oct. 10, 1923, when the defendant, together with Albert St. Pierre and Dolan Gagnon, both of Lewiston, were arrested by government agents at Bethel, when it is claimed they attempted to bring a quantity of liquor into the state. The other defendants pleaded guilty to the charges and received sentences.

HELD IN MURDER OF
ITALIAN MILLIONAIRE

MARSEILLES, France, Oct. 4.—Acting on the request of the Italian consul, the police have arrested Auguste Malhera on a charge of complicity in the murder of the Italian millionaire socialist deputy, Matteotti, the kidnapping and slaying of whom aroused a furore in Rome. The consul asked the police to watch for another suspect, Philippe Panzoni, but he is believed to have gone to Paris.

FORMER PREMIER
HELD FOR TRIAL

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Oct. 4.—Sir Richard Squires, former premier of Newfoundland, was committed for trial before the supreme court here yesterday, the magistrate's court holding that sufficient prima facie evidence appeared in the charges based on the report made last March by Crown Commissioner Heffernan Walker that Sir Richard, then in office, had received public moneys and also large sums from the British Empire Steel corporation.

The order of commitment was ordered to be made tomorrow in order to enable Sir Richard Squires' bondsmen to arrange a renewal of the bonds under which the former premier had been held since his arrest last April on charges of larceny, which were the immediate outgrowth of the Walker report. Sir Richard, at the close of the proceedings, reiterated his absolute denial of the charges or any complicity in the affair.

Commissioner Walker found against Sir Richard on a charge that $22,000 from the funds of the government liquor control department was paid into Sir Richard's account at the Bank of Nova Scotia instead of into the public treasury. He also found against Sir Richard on a charge that $46,000 was paid into the same account by the British Empire Steel corporation at a time when negotiations were proceeding between the company and the government for renewal of the company's contract for renewal of the company's found to both transactions.

PANIC IN REPUBLICAN CAMP

Manager Butler of the republican campaign is evidently panicky over the outbreak of Senator Brookhart of Iowa who has demanded that General Dawes be put off the republican ticket and a real progressive, such as Senator Norris substituted. The senator tells why he has thus attacked Dawes and his reasons are not at all trifling.

He says Dawes by his blunders and opposition to the real interests of the farmers, has wrecked the party in the northwest. Manager Butler says it is Brookhart who wrecked it, and he further states that there is a coalition between the democrats and independents that means the throwing of the election into congress and the choice of Governor Bryan as president following the failure of the house to elect a president. This is but a revival of the Bryan bogey for the purpose of preventing a stampede against the republican party in the western states.

There is no ground whatever for the charge that there is a coalition between the democrats and La Follette. There is a probability, however, that Brookhart may quit the republican party and go over to La Follette. It is likely that Hiram Johnson will do the same, with the result that the west and northwest would be lost to the republicans. In such a case, the democratic party would have a majority in congress as the La Follette party has not put up a general ticket in those states. The same is true in this state. Electors are on the ballot for La Follette and Wheeler, but the independents have not named candidates for congress and the United States senate.

Thus it appears, that if the election be thrown into congress, the democratic house will be able to elect John W. Davis as president, and if the senate has a democratic majority, as is probable, Bryan will be chosen vice president. The outlook for democratic success is daily becoming brighter.

CLASSICAL STUDIES

Nearly a million American youths are studying Latin and other dead languages, chiefly Greek. Some allege that this study is futile. Nothing could be further from the truth. No student can study either language without imbibing much of the wise maxims, the logic, rhetoric and poetry of the ancient days. It is a peculiar fact that the works of the best ancient writers still stand as models for our modern writers and are rarely if ever excelled.

But apart from this mental development resulting from the study is one of its main objects. The reason why such a howl is raised against the study of the classics is, that the present day student is averse to hard study of any kind except that from which he sees a speedy financial return. There is a movement toward the utilitarian in education which while right and necessary in its proper sphere, should not be allowed to eliminate all that is cultural and calculated to develop the aesthetic and spiritual side of our nature. The classics open the door to vast fields of learning and intellectual culture. Nobody can master the English language without a knowledge of Latin and Greek. The fact is, that while these are known as dead languages, they are really alive in our own English tongue and whole families of modern languages on the continent of Europe.

G. O. P. TARIFF AND PRICES

"Living costs not increased by tariff," says the republican campaign book of 1924 in its index, and in discussing the tariff elsewhere, tells us that there had been a decrease in prices during the last year, throughout which the Fordney-McCumber tariff was in full force. A few lines further along, it says "the tariff cannot be held responsible for any increase in the price of particular goods. Since September, 1922," when the Fordney-McCumber act became effective. Again it says, speaking of the duty on sugar, "the tariff had nothing at all to do with the price advance."

The author of the above quoted lines must not have been the same individual, as the author of the chapter on "The Farmer and the Tariff," for he said, among other things: "Tariff kept price of wheat in American market above that in Canada." "Tariff kept prices of dairy products above those elsewhere in world." "Tariff gave U. S. potato grower better prices than his foreign competitor." "Sheep industry saved by tariff." "Wool growing industry faced ruin until tariff was enacted," and, "Briefly . . . it operated to maintain a higher level of prices in the United States, for all kinds of agricultural products, than in any other country of the world."

And now, since the wooden handle has been welded to the silver spoon, since the sea is dry and the earth is wet, the sun shines by night and the moon by day, we know that black is white and that the tariff raises prices and lowers the cost of living.

HEAR SENATOR WALSH

On Monday the people of Lowell will have an opportunity to hear U. S. Senator Walsh at city hall steps at noon and at Liberty hall in the evening. He is to come not only in his own interest but that of the general democratic ticket. But the republican national committee is exerting all its power to defeat Senator Walsh and has planned to make a special drive against him for that purpose. It behooves the citizens generally, therefore, to hear him and even to meet him on his visit here Monday. He will doubtless give an interesting account of his stewardship and show good reasons why he should be re-elected. The senior senator is now 74 years old and Speaker Gillett, the opponent of Senator Walsh, is 73. Is it good policy to elect to such an important office for a term of six years a man who has passed the Scriptural milestone of three score years and ten? We think not and the fact that a younger and more capable man in the person of Senator Walsh deserves the election should clinch it in his favor.

BOOMING REGISTRATION

The O'Sullivan campaign committee has started a good movement for the registration of eligible voters. There are in the city at present a total of 64,595 assessed polls and the voting list shows only 18,400 male voters and 12,712 female, making a total of 31,112. It is reasonable to assume that there must be a large proportion of those eligible for registration. It is the aim of all the democratic clubs and committees to get as many as possible registered for the state election on Nov. 4.

It is true that an unknown number of those who are unregistered are foreigners who are not eligible as some of them have not yet been naturalized.

It is likely to have all stock brokerage houses placed under the control of the state superintendent of banking. He has been led to take this step by the failure of several brokerage concerns with large liabilities. It is high time that some effective steps were taken to prevent such brokers from swindling the people, by the sale of worthless stocks or by gathering in vast sums of money for investment on the promise of extraordinary profits.

SCHOOL ASSIGNMENTS

In reference to the assignment of teachers in grammar schools, we always suppose the principal had a free hand to make whatever arrangement he finds most likely to attain the best results. Otherwise he cannot justly be held responsible for results as every principal should be. Something seems to be seriously wrong when the question of what teacher shall be assigned to a particular grade forms the subject of a heated debate at a school board meeting, with one or more teachers protesting their respective claims for transfer to other grades or objecting to assignments already made.

TREES SAVED THEIR LIVES

It is not often that a tree saves lives; but that pine tree that was uprooted and broken by an auto heavily laden with Normal school students, saved the entire number from probable death at the bottom of the steep hill. Those young lads should interest themselves in the fate of that tree. If it be practicable, it should be firmly set in the ground on the same spot so that hereafter it can be pointed out as the tree that saved a fine bunch of young lads students from certain death.

Drunkness is steadily increasing, says prohibition officer Cronin, basing his statement upon the number of arrests for the past year. An increase of 250 per year since 1920 seems to show that despite the alleged law enforcement, there is a steady trend upward. How this is to be checked or stopped is a problem for the police department.

With full control of the street department, City Engineer Kearney can see that the work undertaken is done right, and at reasonable expense. He can also work out a general plan that will eventually give us good streets. Throughout the city which is what the people want. He will not have much time to reverse the order of things before the snow flies.

The Literary Digest puts out a vast amount of propaganda favorable to the republican party through its presidential election. It polls all the republican states first, thereby giving the candidates of that party to lead in the lead, and creating a false impression as to the actual conditions.

The Christian Endeavor convention to be held here October 10-15, will be a notable event. It will bring here perhaps 1000 delegates, a fact that will emphasize our need of better hotel accommodations, although we never expect to have hotels big enough to house such a large number.

Philadelphia must be in a bad way if it cannot get along without that petty tyrant, Gen. Butler.

It is probable that Gen. Dawes will prove the nodder of the republican campaign.

Today politics will give way to baseball.

SEEN AND HEARD

What is more rare than a nice October day?

Smiles are golden and some are even more precious.

There have been times in the lives of some men when the safest way out was through the window.

A thought: Riches either serve or govern the possessor.—Horace.

Didn't need so much: Martin Meneville, arrested at Yonkers for stealing 50 cents' worth of tomatoes from a neighbor's garden, offered to put up property worth $50,000 as bail. Judge Boote informed him that $500 would be sufficient.

Dukes Sell Estates: Since the war, five dukes have had to sell, in whole or in part, their landed estates in England, owing to taxation and death duties. The five are: The Duke of Richmond and Gordon, Rutland, Sutherland, Westminster and Marlborough.

Sing Off Her Piece: Miss Madeline M. Bailey of Angola, Ind., a singer, sang off her line in a speeder court at Chicago. After assessing her $34 and costs, the magistrate asked her to sing. When she rendered several selections, the justice remitted her fine.

Rats Responsible: Rats destroyed the general store at Schaumburg, Ill. The place caught fire. The local fire department, avid to show their prowess, rushed out to fight the flames. But the rats, always ready to do their worst, and investigation showed that the house was clogged with rats. Meanwhile the flames were leaping higher. Total loss.

Daughter's Pleading: The doctor rushed out of his study in a state of great excitement. "Get my bag at once!" he shouted. "Why, what is the matter?" inquired his wife. "Some fellow has just telephoned that he can't live without me," gasped the medical man as he reached for his hat. His wife gave a slight nod and said, "Just a moment," she said gently, "I think that call was for our daughter, dear."

Not of That Faith: During the hearing of a certain criminal case a volatile bandit declared in the witness box that he had been prepared for trouble from the moment he had let his room to the accused, who was on trial for his life; whereupon the judge remarked that she must be a pessimist. "Begging your pardon, my Lord," she exclaimed, "I had just said I always won a member of the Church of England!"

He's Going Yet: A Portland, Me., engine company received a call to retrieve an alleged tame parrot from a high trooper. After long and unavailing efforts to entice the parrot from its heavenly perch, the firemen gave up to a self-admitted ornithologist, who said a parrot couldn't fly if its feathers were wet and followed his advice to the extent of soaking Polly with a generous stream. When the water was poured was a nice speck in the sky, proceeding on its way to join the world stars.

He Heard a Band: Jones made a crystal set (so far as looks went) and connected it up with a radio and a loudspeaker. As soon as he got the head-phones to his ears, he heard a band. He had a noise. It was the faint sound of a brass band far away, he pulled the receivers away, and the music swelled—he put them back, and again the music faded. It was disappointing and annoying. He would have been working with his set all night if his wife had not mentioned that the Salvation Army band was playing at the end of the street.

France Waking Up

"France is beginning to wake up," remarked former British Premier Neville Chamberlain the other day. "Now she is going to get some of the rest of us help the world out of its financial chaos." The position of France reminds me of an occasion when a small motor boat turned over and its two occupants had a tough time swimming ashore. As they finally lay puffing on the sand, one man said: "My God, that was hard work. I never thought I'd make it against the pull of the tide." The noddin', retorted his friend, "I had the launch tied to that emergency rope you wear around your waist!"

October's Party: October gave a party. The leaves by hundreds came. The Chestnuts, Oaks and Maples, And leaves of every name. The Sunshines spread a carpet, Rain and drizzle were a part. The weather was the king, Professor Wind the band.

The Chestnuts came in yellow, The leaves in crimson dressed; The lovely Misses Maple, In scarlet looked their best; All balanced to their partners, And gaily fluttered by. The stars were in the air, New fallen from the sky.

Then in the rustle hallow, At hidden-socks they played, The party closed at sundown And everybody stayed. Professor Wind played louder, And the party danced. In jolly "hands around."

—GEORGE COOPER.

MAN ABOUT TOWN

The Parent-Teacher associations which are now meeting in regular session are working on a larger scale this year than last and a successful year is expected to be the result. The meetings are most enjoyable and the members find it interesting to be able to help along in the work of the schools through co-operation with the teachers.

The talk given to the high school students of the commercial department yesterday morning by Miss Gabrielle Paquin was equally interesting and educational. Miss Paquin who has been recently appointed secretary to the American legation in Vienna, Austria, told the students of the many positions open for the stenographer today and urged them to enter the stenographic rather than the clerical field.

The love of a dog for his master and the faithfulness of the canine in face of all difficulties, was never better proven than in the sad death of a Hudson, N. H. man who was accidentally killed Thursday while hunting in the Tynghosher woods. With the man the time of his fatal accident was his dog, a faithful hound that had accompanied him on many a hunting trip and had pointed out game for the master to shoot. When the accident occurred that snuffed out the life of the hunter, the faithful dog stood over the body until a searching party had found the body and forcibly separated the dog from his dead master.

Traffic officers on duty in the square last night reported a case of a motorist who was killed by a car on Merrimack street is one of the danger points of the downtown section owing to the fact that it is a popular point for persons to cross the street. During the last few weeks there have been several accidents at this point in which pedestrians have been injured.

There is a slight up-grade at this crossing and automobilists naturally drive faster than usual to make the grade without shifting and as the streets near the square are almost always wet due to the street sprinkling, the crossing is very difficult to stop and a quick stop is essential to avoid accidents.

In the last two weeks, drivers of the automobiles involved and witnesses said the accidents were due to the machines slipping or skidding on the wet street.

Graduates of the high school commercial department who are anxious to better themselves by evening work are afforded an opportunity this year at no cost to themselves, but the time spent at the evening high school. All students of the high school department of the day school commercial department for two years and who is considered one of the best bookkeeping teachers in the eastern part of the country, is in charge of the special evening course in accounting. This is for young men and women who have studied bookkeeping in the high school, or who desire to go up the ladder by becoming expert bookkeepers.

The course in secretarial training is in charge of Orton E. Beach, head of the shorthand department of the school. Mr. Beach has had great success here in teaching the Gregg system of shorthand and many of his former students are returning for the special evening course to fit themselves for positions as private secretaries.

The American Society for Municipal Improvements held a four-day convention at the Copley Plaza hotel, in Boston, during the past week. One of the most interesting speakers was N. H. Goughnough, chief engineer. The speaker referred at length to sewerage conditions as they exist today along various sections of the Merrimack river, with a nauseating odor, caused by the dumping of millions of gallons of refuse and sewage daily into the Merrimack river by municipalities all along its banks.

The engineer declared that pollution of the Merrimack waters first becomes serious at North Chelmsford, above Lowell, and from there to the river's mouth at Newburyport, the river is befouled increasingly as each community makes it a receptacle for its refuse and the waste products of its manufacturing plants.

The sewerage system, planned to be ample to take care of estimated sewerage demands 40 years hence, would begin at Towbury and extend to a point a third of a mile into the sea. The pipe would vary in diameter, reaching its maximum size at Haver-

QUARTER CENTURY AGO

Dr. H. L. Deitz assumed his duties at the Y.M.C.A. as physical director. He had been employed in a like capacity at the San Francisco Y.M.C.A. He received a cordial welcome. Mr. C. M. Williams, secretary, arranged a reception for the new director and outlined the work of the association for the winter season.

Miss Ann Overtime: Charles A. Dam, inspector of factories brought suit against several Massachusetts mills for running overtime. If Mr. Dam were around at the present time, he might bring suit against some of them for excessive curtailing.

Says the old Sun: "City Library Chase's plan has been inaugurated and the Textile school now has an exhibit in Memorial building. The exhibits fill the room and they have been carefully hung and to the best advantage. Among the most valuable of the designs are several by Grace Dalton, Blanche Burchard, Ida Woodley and Amy Goodhue."

William J. Quigley of North Chelmsford was nominated for representative by the democrats of that town.

Bazaar Prize Winners: A bazaar for the convent of the Immaculate Conception parish, closed on Oct. 2. Miss Nellie Maloney won a diamond ring; Edward Connors, a gold ring; Miss Callahan, a gold watch; Michael O'Connell, a bicycle and John McManus a gold watch.

From the Sun: The Middlesex Women's club of the fall season with a largely attended meeting. Miss Helen Lambert announced a new feature in the formation of a choral class composed of club members to be conducted by Mrs. E. L. Davis of Boston. Mrs. Whittier gave an account of the club's progress and made special mention of the acquisition of Colonial hall as a new and suitable place of meeting. An addition of 150 members was reported for the year and this reached the limit of 500.

Fire in Transit School: An alarming fire visited the industrial building of the county transit school and gutted the entire structure. The building was not occupied with children at the time and hence there were no casualties. The fire department called to the scene was handicapped by lack of water.

25 Years Wed: Mr. Edward Peters and Miss Dalis McAnaney were married on Sept. 25, 1899 at St. Peter's rectory by Rev. Edward F. Saunders.

Mr. Andrew Lambert and Miss Jessie A. McEachern were married Oct. 3, 1924.

Mr. George Farham and Miss Stella Wright were married on Oct. 2, 1924 by Rev. C. E. Fisher.

Mr. Frederick Dunsdale Horbottle of New York and Miss Josephine B. Dickering were married on Oct. 4 at the Kirk street church by Rev. J. H. Bartlett, D.D. The church was beautifully arranged with laurel and palms and a large number of guests from out of town were present at the nuptials.

Mr. John Niles and Miss Millie McDavitt were married Oct. 3, 1924.

Mr. Angus Lambert and Miss Catherine McLaughlin were married Oct. 4 by Rev. D. A. MacPhee.

Miss Mary Pierce and Mr. Francis J. Gault were united in marriage, Sept. 27, 1899, by Rev. Fr. Ronan at St. Peter's rectory.

Central Bridge Burned: The old Sun had a story from the late Assistant Fire Chief Norton dealing with some of the worst fires in Lowell during his experience in the department. The following from the article will be found of interest:

"The first fire that was attended with any number of narrow escapes occurred in Wentworth's block Sept. 20, 1885.

"The fire was discovered in the basement at the foot of the stairs leading to the upper stories, and spread so rapidly through the building that the occupants of the upper floors barely escaped with their lives by some of the making their way out by means of the department ladders. The interior of the building became so dangerous that the fire had to be fought principally from the outside. After burning a short time the roof fell in with a crash and E. E. Stearns and Ed. Leary went down the great, several feet below. Several horsemen were burned by the flames while inside the building but escaped with their lives."

In the early sixties the building at 37 Middle street was occupied as a laundry and was greatly improved by the explosion of a boiler set fire to the building and the entire department was called out. The accident resulted in the loss of five lives. Several were injured.

The Central bridge fire occurred August 1891. Although no lives were lost the city was greatly inconvenienced as persons desiring to communicate with the Centralville district had to be rowed across in boats until a temporary bridge was constructed pending the building of the new structure.

On the night of Dec. 31, 1888 the Warren Street Baptist church was razed by fire. No injuries were noted at the fire, however, although the firemen suffered from the intense cold while fighting the flames.

In Jan., 1899, the armory on Middle street and Central fire station fires occurred. Numerous explosions at the armory made the fire a difficult one to curb but no one was injured.

WILL HOLD SMOKE TALK: The regular weekly meeting of Cerio Parollette of Notre Dame de Lourdes parish was held last evening and several important business matters were acted upon. The committee in charge of the smoke talk to be held Oct. 13, reported favorably. Among the speakers of the evening were Rev. Lucian Brasard; O.M.I., President; O. Bergeron and others.

THE ZOO

The jackal lives in Africa.
Its habits are quite rude;
It follows caravans about
In search of scraps of food.
It's something more common fox.
With fur of grayish yellow;
A prowling rump both day and night;
It's quite a sneaky fellow.

Hal Cochrane's DAILY POEM

Sure, you've got worries! We've all got our share about this, about that or the other. It seems that they come to us out of the air, and when one goes there enters another.

It's easy to fret and go fuming about and just feel that the world has gone smash. We often lose trust, but we cater to doubt, and we let our old feelings get rash.

Then, where does it get you? Why, no place at all! There's nothing that's gained just by worry. You may think it helps, but it's only a stall. Get that fact through your head in a hurry.

Just stop all your fretting, much more you'll be getting, if only to smile you will try. Whatever you're doing, just out the stewin'—instead, keep your spirits up high.

A Mount Vernon (Ill.) man who poisoned his wife may find he made a mistake in not being a rich man's son.

Another senate committee is making another probe. This is regarded as a sure sign of a hard winter.

One big vote getter for Coolidge is the Washington baseball team did so well this season.

Think of the Washington baseball team winning so many games, and the field probably covered with oil.

The auto industry uses more than 30 per cent of the rubber supply, the rest probably being used for neck.

Women are good looking, but funny. One in thirty who poisoned her husband says she loves him.

Robbers stole a Springfield (Ill.) bank's safe, the building itself being too heavy to carry away.

What people want to know is not "Will it rain?" but "How about the weather?"

The papers are so full of the presidential campaign news it is hard to find anything to read.

HEAVY TAXPAYERS IN BILLERICA: The Boston & Maine Railroad corporation heads the list of Billerica's largest taxpayers, this year. Tax Collector John J. Ritchie announces the transportation company's tax totals as amounting to $57,440.10, payable to the town treasury on Oct. 30, 1924.

Tatol mill comes second in the "highest" list, with a tax bill of $19,502.32 to pay. Consolidated Rendering works will be taxes amounting to $13,327.75; North Billerica Manufacturing corporation $2205.02, Lowell Electric Light corporation $2496.06, Suburban Land company $1310.54, and the Billerica Chemical works $1038.

MELLON'S ATTITUDE TURNS AS HE AIDS IN QUIZ

BY HARRY R. HUNT,
N.E.A. Service Writer

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—Washington is a good deal surprised at the change in Secretary of the Treasury Mellon's attitude toward the Census investigation of his department.

Not so long ago he threatened to resign if the inquiry were pushed. He was so emphatic about it that President Coolidge himself demanded a stop to the "probes" the senate was conducting. Now it is announced that he'll co-operate in this one—the very one that previously he was most particularly dead set against.

From the committee room comes the news that the investigators are getting their data in order and that Mellon is helping them. It is stated that the first witness will be called about Oct. 1.

One theory is that Mellon wants to know what's going on before it actually happens; that having failed to head the investigation off, his plan is to give a little direction to it.

He can't overshadow Cousins. Everybody who knows the latter feels sure of this.

But can't he out-manuever him? Cousins is not a first class investigator.

To make the most rapid and thorough progress in an Evening Course demands a method of teaching whereby the pupil is in close personal touch with the teacher. The success of our Evening Courses is due entirely to our Personal, Individualized Teaching for Each Pupil. There are hundreds of young people in this city who have incomplete business training and consequently are unable to give satisfaction. Our Evening School offers them an opportunity to increase their value both to themselves and to their employers.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

Olive Roberts Barton

"DEAR, DEAR!" SAID THE SAND MAN IN A WORRIED VOICE

The Sand Man and Nancy and Nick went skipping along the road that led from Squelch Land to Jum Jum Land and the sea.

They were very happy because they had found the lost sleepy sand at last and as it was going on sundown, it was almost time for the Sand Man to start on his nightly travels over the house-tops.

"Oh, the stars are so bright, Peep down like eyes at me, And the Dream Maker Man Works as fast as he can, Picking dreams off the Dreamland Tree," sang the Sand Man happily.

And the Twins joined in the chorus. And the Dream Maker Man, Working fast as he can, Picking dreams off the Dreamland Tree.

They were so happy that they never noticed that the road had changed to cakes of soap, and slippery ones at that, for the mischievous gnomes had been at work.

Suddenly Nick's feet flew and Nancy's flew and they fell down and rolled against the Sand Man and knocked him over, too, and the sleepy sand flew out of his hands and landed in a field of prickly peppers.

Quick as a ball can bounce, Twee-kanose jumped in and picked up the sleepy sand and ran off with it. "Ha, ha, ha! Hee, hee, hee!" the Twins and the Sand Man heard him giggle. "No sleep for the babies tonight!"

"Dear, dear!" said the Sand Man in a worried voice. "Now it's gone again after all our trouble! Here it is almost moon-up and no without a drop of sleepy sand! It's all to do over again. We'll have to go right after that sneaky, Twee-kanose, and teach him a lesson."

Nancy and Nick got up and rubbed their bruises and bumps and helped the poor Sand Man to his feet. The slippery soap had disappeared as quickly as it had come.

If they had looked quite closely they would have seen a hundred little gnomes tugging and tugging at the soap cakes back to Gnomeland where Cronkabone, the Gnome King, praised them.

"I always like to help a friend," he remarked. "I suppose Twee-kanose is miles away by this time. Perhaps he's in the moon. If he goes far enough the Sand Man will surely be out of a job."

When the Twins finished rubbing their bruises, the Sand Man said, "You'll have to take your magic shoes, children, and go to all the cliffs and turn back the town clocks while I go to the moon and ask the Moon Man to please keep the moon back a little so people won't think it is so late. Perhaps we can still get the sleepy sand in time to put the babies to sleep."

"All right, Mister Sand Man," said Nancy. "And when we've turned all the clocks back where shall we go?" "Meet me on the moon at the Dream Maker's," said the Sand Man. "He lives on the edge of the Golden Forest with his three sons, Snoodle and Snuggles and Snore."

"We'll be there," said the Twins. (To Be Continued)

AFTER AN OPERATION

Mrs. Wilke Couldn't Get Back Her Strength Until She Took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Rochester, Minn.—"I had a very serious operation and it seemed as if I could not get my health back after it. I suffered with pain almost constantly. My sister came to help take care of me, and she was taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for her own weakness and a run-down condition. She had me try some of it, and in a very few days' time I began to feel better. In two weeks I hardly knew myself and after taking a couple of bottles more I was up and helping around, and now I am strong and healthy again and am still taking it. It is a pleasure for me to write this to you, and I hope that many other women who are suffering like I was will find out about your medicine. I will give any information I possibly can." —Mrs. JAMES WILKE, 922 E. Center Street, Rochester, Minnesota.

Remember, the Vegetable Compound has a record of fifty years of success among American women.

Mays' Reds' Star

CARL MAYS

By N.E.A. Service
CINCINNATI, Oct. 2.—Carl Mays wasn't good enough to pitch for the Yankees in the American league, so Miller Huggins turned him aside.
"Go your way and blessings upon your fast ball," intoned the goodly Huggins.
It was the American league belief that Mr. Mays' fast ball needed blessing. It seemed, to have little else.
Mays went to Cincinnati in the Nation league, a club with many star pitchers, including Donohue, Rixey, Lugo and Benton.

Heidricks, who managed the club, told interviewers in the spring he was not counting heavily on Mays. "If he comes through all right, if he doesn't we won't worry."
Mays was late starting, but once started he came with a rush. At times he has stood out as the star of the Reds' staff.

Ready to Fight

Judge Landis, the czar of baseball, snapped in a belligerent attitude at the Washington ball park as criticism against him for not suspending more than O'Connell and Dolan of the Giants began to pile up.

Jury in Tryon Knitter Case Disagree

Judge Morton asked if any progress had been made. The foreman said an absolute disagreement existed, with no signs of a break, although ballot after ballot had been taken and the case had been argued and discussed from every possible angle. The court asked whether it was possible a verdict might be reached with further deliberation, and the foreman replied he did not think so as the ballot tallies had already remained at 6 to 6.
Judge Morton then conferred with Hon. James E. O'Donnell, senior counsel for the defense and Assistant U. S. District Attorney Joseph Carroll and agreed to accept a disagreement report.

The Tryon case went to trial last Tuesday. The defendants were Edward R. Tryon, Fred G. Leary, H. P. Deherby and W. C. Gray. On Thursday the government did not press as far as Gray was concerned and he, therefore, was taken out of litigation. The charges, contained in two grand jury indictments, were the use of the mails with intent to defraud and conspiracy to use the mails in a scheme to defraud.

Yesterday's session was given over entirely to arguments by Atty. O'Donnell and District Attorney E. S. Abbott and the judges charge. Judge Morton told the jury it could return three verdicts—guilty, not guilty and not guilty by reason of a variance. He explained the last named by saying it might be found that while a fraud had been committed, the proof did not tally up with the specific charges in the indictments and such a verdict would allow the government to seek further indictments.

The case grew out of investigations by postoffice inspectors of the Tryon Knitting Co. business, principally with reference to circular advertising and machines. The government alleged it was led to make such an investigation through complaints received from persons who had bought knitters and had been unable to operate them successfully.

Last February the defendants were arraigned for preliminary hearing before Commissioner R. D. Walsh and subsequently discharged by him when after several continuances, the government failed to appear to prosecute. Later grand jury indictments were returned and the case was marked for trial.

C. W. SMITH TO DESIGN $9,000,000 DAM

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Oct. 4.—Chester Watson Smith of Newburyport, Mass., construction engineer for the Roosevelt dam in Arizona, and the Wachusett dam in Massachusetts, an international authority on power dam construction, will be consulting engineer in charge of the designing of the huge $9,000,000 dam with which the Rochester Gas & Electric corporation plans to harness the Genesee river in the gorge above Mount Morris. Mr. Smith arrived in New York yesterday from Athens, Greece, where he has been study engineering problems for the Greek government.

The projected dam would be 1000 feet long at the top, if built straight across the river. Its length at the base would be 600 feet, and the solid rock would have to be excavated some 40 feet. Its height would be about 170 feet. A vast artificial lake would be created by the huge mass of concrete flung across the river, extending from a point about a half-mile of the lower falls. Large areas of farm land would be inundated, all of which, according to lighting company officials, is under option. About 15,000 continuous horsepower would be developed.

Chester Watson Smith was born in Hudson, N. H., and attended school there and in Nashua. After extensive

IMPROVEMENT NOTED AT EMPLOYMENT OFFICE

BOSTON, Oct. 4.—The records of the Massachusetts public employment office for the month of September, which were made public today, show an improvement over August and also over September, 1923.

The number of persons called for by employers was 1540, an increase of 118, or 8 1/2 per cent. over August, and an increase of 231, or 14 per cent. over September a year ago. The number of positions filled was 1540, an increase of 57 per cent. over the previous month and an increase of 31 per cent. over September, 1923. Notwithstanding this improvement the attendance of applicants for employment was heavy, being 24,392, an increase of 22 per cent. over August and of 30 per cent. over September a year ago.

During the month 1733 service men—1136 soldiers, 536 sailors—visited the office in search of work. Of this number 217—232 soldiers, 74 sailors—were referred to employers and 228—175 soldiers, 51 sailors—found positions. In the men's skilled department the majority of calls were for the building trades.

BANTAM STARS TO MEET IN BOSTON

BOSTON, Oct. 4.—Two of the best bantamweights in the country are on edge for their bout at Mechanics building, Boston, Monday night, when Eddie "Cannonball" Martin of Philadelphia, clashes with Bobby Wolgast of Philadelphia.

While Wolgast appeared in Boston and held Frankie Genaro even, it will be Martin's maiden visit to New England. His boxing has been confined to New York rings, where he is considered the greatest drawing card in the game and this will be his first bout away from home.

"Cannonball" has had a meteoric career. He has a record of 55 straight victories behind him and the classic boys in the game and only twice in his career has he been held even. He is only 21 years old and has been boxing two years. He is now on his way to overthrow Abe Goldstein as bantam champion, but the title holder continues to refuse to meet him.

Martin is the boy New England has been clamoring to see in action but until recently he refused to consider any bouts out of New York. Now that he has defeated all the boys of his class, he has been forced to roam around the country in search of bigger game.

experience, he became an engineer on the Boston water system staff, where he remained 12 years, until his resignation in 1904. Becoming a consulting engineer with the government, Mr. Smith was in charge of construction of the Roosevelt dam. Since leaving the government forces, his work has been world-wide and today he is looked upon as one of the world's greatest engineers.

TWO MEN KILLED IN WOBURN EXPLOSION

WOBURN, Oct. 4.—Six men were burned, two fatally, when a naphtha tank exploded at the Woburn Decreasing Co. plant here and started a fire which did $100,000 damage. Three other men exploded but workmen opened safety valves in four others and prevented explosions.

Norman Ureslin and Louis Barnberg, two 19-year-old employees, died several hours later, within a short time of each other. Edward Mamborg, father of Louis and foreman of the plant, was also severely burned, but it was said at the hospital last night that he will recover. Recently two men were killed by a similar explosion in a plant of the same company at Peabody.

No Vibration At Any Engine Speed

Willys-Knight with Lanchester Balancer ushers in a new day of enjoyable motoring.

The Willys-Knight is a revelation to motorists. It gives them a new conception of riding ease, a velvet smoothness of operation that surprises and delights.

Much was expected of the car. The ten years it has been in production have been years of progressive leadership. Willys-Knight conquered noise with its quiet sleeve-valve engine,—conquered engine deterioration, conquered carbon and valve trouble, conquered the problems of lubrication, clutch, steering and every detail of mechanical construction. It seemed to approach the pinnacle of possibility.

But Willys-Knight still advances. This year it tops its record with another triumph—it solves the universal problem of engine vibration. The Lanchester Balancer, which eliminates vibration, introduces car owners to a new comfort and pleasure in driving.

The Willys-Knight with Lanchester Balancer awaits your inspection.

FOOTBALL IN THE AIR THIS AFTERNOON

Sporting events are the main features "on the air" this afternoon, with the world series game holding top-notch position and a number of football games following closely in line.

Station WEEI, Edison Light, Boston is furnishing the best broadcast of the big baseball event, working in co-operation with WRAF, American Telephone & Telegraph, which has a microphone in the press box of the Senators' baseball park. Fans desiring to tune in on this broadcast should tune just below WEEI for WEEI is on a 302-meter wave length.

The headliner of the football broadcasts is the Harvard-Virginia game which is being put on the air through WEEI, the Springfield Westinghouse station, which has a "mike" right on the sidelines. Next in line of the football broadcast is the Pitt-Lafayette game broadcast through KDKA at Pittsburgh. The game between the U. S. Marines and Catholic University at Washington is being broadcast by WCAP and the University of Pennsylvania-Franklin and Marshall gridiron scramble will be heard on WIP's 609-meter wave.

Receiving sets, which are not "close-tuned" will find it difficult this afternoon to separate the WEEI and the WEEI broadcasts owing to the nearness of these stations, their almost similar wave-lengths, and their power. WEEI's wave is 337 meters on a power of 1000 watts, which is likely to drown-out WEEI's 303-wave on 600 watts.

Fans with broad tuning sets will find it to their advantage, if bothered by WEEI in tuning in WEEI, to string a short temporary antenna for the occasion. An antenna 25 feet long should suffice for tube sets to tune in WEEI—the volume may not be as great as with the longer wire but the selectivity will be much greater.

IN NEW YORK

By Stephen Hannagan

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—Just before the World War an ambitious Russian had taken his young daughter to Germany that her eyes, dimmed at birth, might be opened to see the beauties and wonders of a progressing world.

The operation was a success and the girl's sight was restored just as the war broke out. Father and daughter came to America, as had been originally planned, but without returning to Russia for mother and the remainder of the family.

Turmoil followed. The mother and babies could not get to the United States. The father, opening a small laundry in New York, stayed and saved for the coming of his book. It is related to me that he lived in such frugal fashion that he suffered. Then, a few weeks ago, with all arrangements made for the reunion of his long-separated family, he rented an apartment and furnished it with luxuries such as neither he nor his family ever before had known. No expense was spared to make the home a wonder mansion for his loved ones.

As time for the arrival of the boat came, the young Russian could scarce contain himself. He longed to take his wife and children to his bosom and nestle them forever in reward for the years of loneliness. The boat landed and his family came on the pier. His wife would have nothing to do with him. She would pay no attention, would listen to no plea.

On the journey to America, after her long years of mothering a brood, she fell in love with a younger man and has cast her lot with him.

The husband she had known only in dreams and memory for so long is heartbroken and forsaken. The lavishly furnished apartment has never been opened. Dust an inch thick has settled in it.

Last evening was spent with three generations of an interesting family. The grandfather, 81, plays the piano with nimble fingers; his daughter has bobbed hair, and her son is an aviator. All three smoke cigarettes. All spend much time in the open. They live on Long Island. The wife would surround him, just 22 minutes from Broadway.

WILL OBSERVE FEAST OF "YOM KIPPUR"

The Day of Atonement—in Hebrew, "Yom Kippur"—falls this year upon October 8. It will be celebrated in all three Lowell synagogues with a profoundly impressive ritual service on the evening of October 7 and all day of October 8. Observant Jews fast on this day and sedulously refrain from all labor or secular matters, considering it a Sabbath or Sabbath.

The fast occurs on the tenth day of the month of Tishri, according to the lunar Jewish calendar, and is prescribed in Leviticus 16 and 23, where it is entitled "a Sabbath of solemn rest." No other feast or fast, except the Sabbath year, is designed as significantly. On this day, as on no other, the synagogues are crowded with worshippers, gathered to carry out the Biblical injunction "to afflict the soul." The fast holds the reverence and inspires the awe of scattered Israel.

The observance of the Day of Atonement dates back beyond historic records. Some part of its observance in pre-Christian times is preserved in the Mishna. On that day, the High Priest, attired in simple white instead of the gorgeous sacerdotal vestments of his office, made atonement for himself, his family and the whole house of Israel, and entered the Holy of Holies, where "behind the veil," he solemnly invoked the ineffable name of God. At the sound of the divine name, the throngs of worshippers fell prostrate, exclaiming: "Blessed be His glorious name forever and ever," to be answered with the assurance, "Ye are pure."

According to Jewish thoughts, the act of fasting and the ritual are the potent factors of the day, rather than a day for the individual's confessing his shortcomings and to amend them. The Day of Atonement is actually dedicated to human freedom from the greatest of all slavery—the domination of sin.

WHEELER INVADERS PACIFIC TERRITORY

WHEELER SPECIAL EN ROUTE TO SPOKANE, Wash., Oct. 4.—Senator Wheeler, independent vice-presidential candidate, invaded Pacific territory at Spokane early today. For the next eight days he will campaign in Washington, Oregon and California.

His itinerary in Spokane was left in the hands of a local committee, which made special arrangements for Mrs. Wheeler, who has traveled with her husband throughout the west. After a night meeting in that city, the campaign party will leave for Seattle.

WASHINGTON TUBBS II

REPUBLICAN STRENGTH AT PEAK AND DEMOCRATIC GAINING

Interesting Washington Review of the Situation—Federation of Labor Out for Senator Walsh—Republicans Appealing to French Canadians Against La Follette

(Special to The Sun)
WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.—Democratic campaign prospects have brightened. Two important developments recently which have favored the democrats are the decision of Governor Smith of New York to be a candidate for another term, and the public protest against Charles G. Dawes, made by Senator Brookhart, insurgent republican. Dawes has been campaigning in the west, largely because he wanted, according to reports here, many believe he would be much more effective in the east.

Governor Smith's candidacy gives Davis a much better chance to carry New York state. Smith is supporting Davis to the limit of his ability and his speeches in New York state and New England and New Jersey will have much weight in holding democratic votes from La Follette and in favor of Davis. The American Federation of Labor has endorsed La Follette, yet has also endorsed Governor Smith, who will next week begin aggressive campaigning for Davis. Young Theodore Roosevelt is not regarded either in New York or Washington as a formidable candidate against Smith.

Both Davis and La Follette continue to make gains, the former in the east and the latter in the west. That the election will be decided and thrown into Congress today is a question of bet. The deciding states are likely to be New York, New Jersey, Maryland, Kentucky and Missouri. If Davis can carry New York the election La Follette will probably be defeated because western states to prevent the republicans obtaining a majority of the electors. If Davis loses New York but can carry New Jersey, Maryland, Kentucky, Virginia, Missouri and Tennessee, in all of which his stock is just now strong, the election will probably be decided.

Here is the situation as it appears in Washington today, a month before the election.

The republicans have reached the peak of their strength; can they hold on to it in view of the steady gains being made by Davis and La Follette? President Coolidge is a favorite to win but possibly he is a dead end election is daily becoming more certain and is heading toward the probability stage.

Davis has a chance of winning himself that is, with the solid south and Governor Smith in the east, he has a strong foundation. In the coming weeks of the campaign should he have a few good "breaks."

His campaign in Massachusetts instructing him to split the votes so as to vote for La Follette and Wheeler electors and also for the congressional candidates endorsed by labor will aid Senator Walsh's campaign. Senator Walsh has the endorsement of the American Federation of Labor, the railroad brotherhoods and the labor organization affiliated with the La Follette-Wheeler campaign.

Frank Morrison, secretary of the American Federation of Labor, and also the latter's non-partisan campaign committee, this week sent to the Massachusetts branch of the American Federation of Labor, instructions as follows:

"Make an investigation and survey of the state election laws so that you will thoroughly understand what the voters must make for a ballot, or ballots, as they enter the voting booth, so that they may vote for the La Follette-Wheeler electors, and the congressional and senatorial records are favorable to labor."

Prepare a brief circular letter, and in plain language, explain just how the ballot should be marked to send it to the secretary of all of the affiliated unions in your state.

Wherever the ballot is a complicated one, the organization should be urged to consider the ability of printing a "sample" ballot and have it published in the labor papers of the state, or printed in the form of a handbill and given general distribution.

The La Follette movement appears to have made some headway among French-Canadian voters in New Eng-

REAL ESTATE SALES

Thomas H. Elliott, real estate and insurance, reports the following sales negotiated during the past week:

In the South End, final papers have been sent to record in the transfer of a residential property at 19 Potter street. The house is of the one and one-half story type with six rooms and bath. It occupies an excellent corner totalling 2800 sq. ft. assessed at the rate of $6 per foot. The conveyance is made on behalf of Mrs. Laura W. Loring. The grantee being Charles E. Favro and Nellie S. Favro. Mr. and Mrs. Favro buy for personal occupancy and plan extensive improvements to the property in the near future.

On behalf of John F. Sawyer of the Union National bank, executor of the estate of the late E. A. Bartlett, conveyance have been effected of a large tract of land on the southerly side of Boston road and immediately opposite the Edson cemetery. The property approximates an area well over 200,000 sq. ft. and will be utilized for the establishment of a new parish cemetery. The grantee is the Roman Catholic archbishop of Boston. This sale is made in conjunction with the office of Robert E. Crowley.

Final papers have been sent to record in the transfer of the residential property at 62 Fairmount street on Belvidere hill. The house is a full 2 and 1-3 story type with ten rooms, sleeping porch and two baths. The land involved totals 10,610 sq. ft. and carries assessment at the rate of 30c per foot. The transfer is negotiated on behalf of Larkin T. Trull, of the firm of Trull, Wier & O'Donoghue. The grantee is Joseph Clark formerly of North Billerica and at the present time connected with the Waterhead mills of this city. Mr. Clark purchases for personal occupancy.

MAN FOUND WITH GUN- SHOT WOUNDS

LYNN, Oct. 4.—Sylvan Mollite, 35, 16 Rockaway street, of this city, is at the Lynn hospital with gunshot wounds in his right leg. When picked up in a sedan at Western avenue and Chatham street by William Gannon, 12 years old, with both barrels of a shotgun in the woods off Highland avenue, near the Salem line. He said the boy accidently fired an attack. The shooting took place near the spot where a boy was attacked and murdered about a year ago.

SAYS POTHIER TOLD HIM HE KILLED OFFICER

TACOMA, Wash., Oct. 4.—The statement, "I am the man who shot Major Cronkrite," has been attributed to Roland Pothier of Providence, R. I., who is being tried in the federal court here on a charge of murdering Major Alexander Cronkrite at Camp Lewis in 1918.

In testimony yesterday Thomas J. Callaghan of Providence, an agent of the department of justice, said that Pothier had made the statement to him.

BOSTON COUPLE KILLED IN HONOLULU

HONOLULU, Oct. 4.—(By the Associated Press.)—Master Sergeant Charles H. Ruppert and his wife, Mrs. Ruppert, were killed yesterday when their automobile was struck by a train near Schofield barracks, where Sgt. Ruppert was stationed with the artillery.

MOSLEM COUNCIL MOVES TO AVOID BLOODSHED

JERUSALEM, Oct. 4.—(By the Associated Press.)—The Moslem Supreme Council today telegraphed to all of the Moslem states and all of the Moslem representative organizations, asking them to send deputies to Jeddah to intervene in the effort to avoid bloodshed.

DISCUSSES MOVE TO EXTRADITE DE KAY

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.—Department of justice officials discussed today the move to extradite John Wesley de Kay, former Providence, R. I., banker from London, to prosecute him for alleged political activities instead of for participation in commission of a crime in connection with the failure of the Atlantic National Bank of Providence in 1918.

The charge that this government sought to extradite de Kay for political activities was made at the extradition hearing in London yesterday by James D. Cassels, de Kay's counsel. Department of justice spokesmen viewed Cassels' statements as a "form of defense and an effort on counsel's part to delay the extradition."

THE WINTER TRAFFIC UNIFORMS ARE NIFTY

Owing to the arrival of cool weather, the shakli uniforms worn by Lowell's traffic squad have been called in, but another innovation in dress wearing apparel is to be introduced by the members of the squad next Saturday, when they will appear at their posts of duty attired in winter traffic uniforms, similar in style to the summer brand but of much heavier material.

The uniforms are to be made for by the officers themselves and are designed after the fashion of those in Boston and other metropolitan cities. They will consist of the coat with traffic insignia on the sleeve as at present, blue breeches and black leather puttees.

LEFT AMBULANCE TO BUY CIGARETS

NEW LONDON, Conn., Oct. 4.—Eugene Gubanow, said to be a banker of Boston, who became ill in New York after visiting friends in that city, and who refused to enter a hospital there or to return to his home in Boston by train, arrived here about 9:30 a. m. in a private ambulance.

While here Gubanow left the ambulance to purchase cigarettes, indicating that his illness was not serious. He continued his journey in the ambulance, Mrs. Gubanow, accompanying him.

VEILED PROPHETS OF ENCHANTED REALM

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Oct. 4.—Members of the Order of Veiled Prophets of the Enchanted Realm from all parts of New England to the number of more than 2000 engaged in a field day and outing here today, a feature of which was a colorful parade with many bands. Sports at the eastern states exposition grounds followed. A band contest in the morning was won by the band of Asah Gifford of Fall River.

Commonwealth of Massachusetts—Middlesex, ss. Probate Court. To the heirs-at-law, next of kin, creditors, and all other persons interested in the estate of John Moran, late of Lowell, in said County, deceased, in testament.

Whereas a petition has been presented to said Court to grant a letter of administration on the estate of said deceased to Catherine F. Moran, of Lowell, in the County of Middlesex, without giving a surety on her bond. You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court to be held at Cambridge, in said County of Middlesex, on the seventeenth day of October, 1924, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause if any you have, why the same should not be granted.

And the petitioner is hereby directed to give public notice thereof, by publishing this citation once in each week, for three successive weeks, in the Lowell Sun, a newspaper published in Lowell, the last publication to be one day, at least, before said Court.

Witness George E. Brown, Esquire, First Judge of said Court, this first day of October, in the year one thousand nine hundred and twenty-four.

INJURIES PROVE FATAL

Lynn Boy Dies From Burns
Received When 23,000
Volts Passed Through Body

LYNN, Mass., Oct. 4.—Wesley Day, a 16-year-old high school boy and son of Mr. and Mrs. James W. Day, 10 Otis street, Lynn, died at the Lynn hospital this morning from burns received Friday afternoon, when 23,000 volts of electricity passed through his body from high tension wires of the Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway company on a tower in the woods of Lynnfield street. After being nearly electrocuted, the boy fell a distance of 75 feet. His clothing caught fire and set the woods on fire and he was nearly suffocated. He was conscious when found two hours later.

GERMANY ALLOWED SEVEN DAYS MORE

PARIS, Oct. 4.—(By the Associated Press.)—A report from Owen D. Young, temporary agent-general for reparations under the Dawes plan, to the reparations commission, read at yesterday afternoon's meeting of that body, shows that the work of putting the experts' report into execution is not maintaining the speed and punctuality with which it started.

The London conference decided that the experts' plan would be considered as having been put into execution if the reparations commission could announce the fulfillment of certain conditions by September 1, and certain others by October 1. The commission made this first announcement on time.

Mr. Young, however, reports that, although he considers every effort has been made to fulfill the latter means, he thinks that further time should be allowed Germany and the commission. Accordingly, it was decided to extend the period from October 1 until seven days later.

Under the London agreement the reparations commission should by October 1 be in a position to announce five things: First, that necessary laws had been voted and promulgated; second, that the executive and controlling bodies provided under the Dawes plan had been constituted; third, that the new German bank and railroad control had been constituted; fourth, that three theatres representing the railway bonds had been deposited with the trustees; and fifth, that the contracts had been concluded assuring subscriptions of the 500,000,000 gold mark loan.

URGES JAPAN TO TAKE HAND IN CHINESE WAR

TOKIO, Oct. 4.—(By the Associated Press.)—Five thousand persons including members of the House of Peers and representatives attending a meeting in Shima Park today, adopted resolutions urging the Japanese government to interfere in the civil war in China as an ally of General Chang Tso-Lin, Manchurian leader, who is carrying on hostilities against the Peking armies for the control of the central government of China.

Major-General Sato, retired, addressing the meeting, said Japanese troops should be sent to China before the Peking troops enter Manchuria, where General Chang Tso-Lin rules.

BODY OF MURDERED MAN FOUND IN POND

BEVERLY, Oct. 4.—Murder was disclosed today when the body of a man, trussed up with chain and wire and weighted down by cylinder heads and a painter's hook was found by duck hunters in a pond at North Beverly. The victim, apparently a laboring man, about 12 years old, could not be identified. The body had apparently been in the water several weeks.

WOULD ABANDON R. R. TRACK IN TEWKSBURY

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.—The Boston & Maine railway today applied to the Inter-State Commerce commission for authority to abandon 5.2 miles of road from Pike's Siding, in Lawrence, Mass., to Tewksbury, and 3.2 miles of road from Wilmington Junction to Tewksbury.

Home Circulation is Best

Advertisers who use The Sun consistently get greater returns on the money invested than through any other Lowell newspaper. There's a reason. The Sun goes into more homes in Lowell and suburbs than any other Lowell paper and ninety per cent of Sun readers read no other Lowell newspaper. Furthermore, ninety five per cent of The Sun circulation is confined to the city of Lowell and immediate vicinity.

50,000 CHEER GOV. COX AT BROCKTON FAIR

BROCKTON, Oct. 4.—Gov. Channing H. Cox, representing the commonwealth of Massachusetts for the fourth time as governor, paid what will probably be his last official visit to the Brockton fair yesterday and was accorded all the pomp and ceremony that military escorts and reception committees could provide, to which was added the applause of more than 50,000 people who clustered around the track and in front of the grandstand to pay their respects.

Accompanying Gov. Cox was Lieut. Gov. Alvan T. Fuller, most of the leading state officials, foreign consuls and men prominent in the army and navy in the state.

The governor and his party were met at the state house early in the forenoon by a reception committee from the fair. With an escort of the state constabulary, the party drove over the road in nearly 50 autos, each bearing the state flag.

At the Commercial club, the guests were entertained at lunch, at the conclusion of which Gov. Cox was made the only honorary member of the Governor's day reception committee. His Excellency made a neat speech of acceptance.

After luncheon the parade was formed to the fair grounds, where it was met by a platoon of police, three bands, Batteries B, D and F of the 101st Field Artillery, in command of Maj. Warren S. Keith of this city, and Troop C, 110th Cavalry of Boston, in command of Capt. Philip L. Brown.

The governor was given a notable ovation as his auto swept around the track and finally drew up in front of the grandstand, where the governor was escorted to the governor's box to review the parade.

More than 50 veterans of the Grand Army were also in line and the reception they received was no less hearty than that given Gov. Cox.

the prisoners had been taken before the United States attorney.

The federal operatives said they were convinced the Frederick R was one of four rum ships operated by a band of international rum smuggling conspirators. Three other ships of the "rum line" they said, have landed between 75,000 and 100,000 cases of whiskey.

NEW YORK GOLFERS LEAD MASS. PLAYERS

HAMILTON, Oct. 4.—New York golfers led the Massachusetts team, 1 to 3 in the foursomes at the end of the forenoon play for the Leslie cup today.

The defending Metropolitan team was considered to be handicapped somewhat in the singles play of the afternoon by a lame wrist suffered by Jesse Sweetser, former national amateur champion, although he and John G. Anderson were able to win from Francis Oulmet and William Whitcomb, 1 up at the home hole this morning.

The summary:
J. G. Anderson and Jesse Sweetser, New York, defeated Francis Oulmet and William Whitcomb, Massachusetts, 1 up.
Ray Gordon and Karl Messer, Massachusetts, defeated J. F. Krammer and William Reekie, New York, one up.
J. M. Douglas and Oswald Kirkby, New York, defeated Clark Hodder and A. P. Adams, Massachusetts, 2 and 1.
R. H. Jones and E. J. Paul, New York, defeated Howard Paul and Percy Gilbert, Massachusetts, 7 and 6.
W. F. Eatabrook and W. F. McPhail, Massachusetts, defeated J. P.ingham and J. W. Stearns, New York, 2 and 1.

Key and other honors in the United States, in the last seven months.

The agents said the Frederick R. recently had changed its name. She hailed from Halifax.

NEW YORK GOLFERS LEAD MASS. PLAYERS

NEW YORK, Oct. 4.—Rallying tendencies characterized today's stock market. Opening prices were heavy on a continuation of yesterday's political developments. Most offerings were absorbed and the market was not long in heading upward again. Soft spots were not entirely eliminated, substantial gains in the grain market, Central International Paper and Krease Department Stores. Good buying was noted in the food, motor and public utility issues. Cuyamel Fruit, National Biscuit, American Water Works, Virginia Railway and Power, Jordan Motor, General Motors debentures, Pan-American B. Atlantic Refining, Farmers Trust, and St. Joseph Lead were among the many issues to sell at a point or more above yesterday's final prices. The closing was firm. Sales approximately 350,000 shares.

NEW YORK, Oct. 4.—Reactionary price movements prevailed at the opening of today's market on a continuation of the selling inspired yesterday by political developments. United States Steel common, American Can, Studebaker and several other popular industrial and general opening fractionally lower. One block of 1500 St. Paul preferred changed hands at 20, off 1/4. There were a few points of independent strength. United Railways investment preferred gaining 1/4 and Chesapeake & Ohio.

After the first batch of selling orders had been absorbed, the general market began to rally with Bethlehem Steel, United Steel and Cast, Erie, Nash Motors, General Electric, American Car & Foundry and Sears Roebuck rising 1 to 2 points above yesterday's final quotations. Simmons touched a new top at 29 1/2 while Chandler Motors fell one point to a new low at 32 1/2. Consolidated Gas of Baltimore broke three points and Stewart-Warner and Goodrich each lost in the initial wave of selling. Foreign exchanges opened steady and quiet.

MANCHESTER, N. H., Oct. 4.—The Amoskeag wage cut, scheduled to become effective today, has been postponed. It is understood that conditions in the cotton market are such that the ten per cent wage reduction would not enable the Amoskeag selling agents to change selling prices. The wage cut proposal was made at the suggestion of the workers' convention, but the postponement of the cut leaves the situation here confusing, owing partly to the increase in raw supply lists.

TRAIN WRECKED, MAN KILLED

R. R. Officials Searching for Negro Believed Responsible For Wreck

Threatened to "Get" Brakeman Following Argument
—Engineer Killed

AVISON, Ill., Oct. 4.—Railroad officials today were searching for an unidentified negro for questioning in connection with the wrecking of a passenger train No. 12 eastbound, here last night which resulted in the death of C. Van Allen, 50 years old, of Washington, Ind., the engineer, and the injury of about 15 passengers. The train ran into an open switch, the engine and several cars leaving the rails. Railroad officials who immediately began an investigation into the wreck said they learned the negro and a brakeman on the train engaged in a dispute when the train stopped at Breese, two miles west of here. The negro attempted to strike the brakeman with a crowbar, according to the information to the railroad police, but was overpowered by other members of the crew. He left the scene threatening to "get" the brakeman, they said. A work train passed safely over the switch an hour previous to the wreck, according to the officials, and as there was nothing wrong with it at that time, they said they were at a loss to explain why it was open later unless the negro had pulled it, as a means of carrying out his threat.

Rotarians Off For Poland Springs

grounds of the Portland clubmen's organization, Lowell visitors being guests and everything freely contributed for their entertainment.

The journey enroute to Poland Springs, will be made before dark, all local Rotarians and wives hoping to reach their destination in time for the evening meals and assignments of hotel quarters for the four-days' stay in the famous convention resort.

The executive committee handling the eighth district Rotary International convention consists of the following members:

George D. Hegarty, Waterville, Me., chairman; Daniel W. Hogg, Portland; Maurice A. Stevens, Lynn; Robert W. Hill, Salem; Harry C. Gilmby, Saco; Mr. Wallace E. Sisson, Keene, N. H.; Arthur C. Spalding, Lowell.

On Monday, the first day of the convention, the delegates will register. A hand concert will be given in the afternoon. The dinner at 6 o'clock, after which the delegates will be in charge of Lowell, Manchester, Newburyport, Haverhill and Lynn members. Among the after-dinner speakers will be U. S. Senator Bert M. Fernald, President Everett W. Hill, of Rotary International; Chesley R. Perry, secretary; J. Anton L. Verkaide, Jr., of Lowell; and J. H. G. Gilmby, of Waterville.

On Tuesday, the individual golf tournament opens, to continue for two days. There will be an executive meeting in the morning. The afternoon program calls for address by Maine citizen guests, with President Hill, of Rotary International, also appearing to welcome the Rotarians home. Field sports will conclude the day's entertainment program. In the evening, the ladies will be entertained and the men will be a band concert. The governor's ball will be the main attraction from 8 to 11:30 p. m.

Wednesday will find the Rotarians again listening to good speakers, the list including President Arthur C. Roberts, of Colby College, past president of Waterville Rotary club; Will R. Mander, Jr., chairman of extension work; Rev. Quay Roselle, Malden Rotary club; Donald M. MacMillan, Arctic explorer. The farewell breakfast will be served on Thursday morning.

On the final day of the Rotarians' visit to Poland Springs, the club executives will meet with District Governor Herbert C. Libby of Waterville, Me., and the final session of singing under the leadership of Fred Garber of Milwaukee, there will be an outline description of the coming year's program by President Hill; a talk on business methods, by Herbert C. Wilson of Worcester; and a review of Rotarian work by Hart Seely, of Waterville, N. Y.

Song leaders will hold a special meeting at 9:20 a. m. Thursday morning, to arrange for a new edition of the Rotarian song books.

For the ladies attending the convention as Rotarian guests there will be a special meeting at 9:30, President Hill addressing the feminine audience.

A talk on Rotary from the viewpoint of a wife of a Rotarian, will be given by Mrs. Everett W. Hill. Daniel P. Sullivan, past governor of the 31st district, will preside at this meeting. Final adjournment of the first annual convective of the eighth district will come at 11:45 a. m. Thursday morning, after an address in ex voto by Will R. Mander, Jr. of Nashville, Tenn.

Lowell Rotary is well represented upon various important convention committees. President Arthur C. Spalding and Alvah H. Weaver are members of the hospitality committee. Mrs. May E. Spalding is on the committee of hostesses. Secretary F. LeRoy Parker has been elected to handle arrangements for the Poland Springs trip. The Lowell clubmen have arranged to surprise the district brethren with handsome blue and yellow booklets, each containing good covers and the inside pages containing an account of Lowell Rotary club work performed during the past year locally; the names of all committees functioning at Poland Springs; a complete program of the four-day convention; a new list of the clubs in the eighth district, with names of executives; a list of all Rotarians and their wives who will attend the convective in Poland Springs, next week.

TO GIVE CONCERT SERIES

Lowell Teachers' Organization is Endeavoring to Establish Scholarship Fund

In announcing a series of first rate concerts for the Memorial Auditorium in the months of November, January, February and March, the Lowell Teachers' organization is attempting to establish a scholarship fund to be used in assisting worthy boys and girls during their high school years. The organization itself will not benefit to the extent of a single cent and every penny of profit will go into the fund. Such an object should command liberal patronage.

In Lowell, as in every other industrial city, there are many children of ability in both the grammar and high schools who cannot complete the school course because of lack of funds. A very small sum, if assured weekly, would be sufficient to keep a child in school until graduation. Many other cities have funds for this purpose, either contributed by private individuals or raised by public appeal and in this local instance the Teachers' organization asks the same support and co-operation of the community that Lowell always has given to worthy enterprises.

Just as the concert series is a little bit different from any other concert series with which Lowell is familiar, so the proposed scholarship fund is the object of this fund is not to send boys and girls to college after they have completed their high school course. There are several funds for that purpose already existing in Lowell. This new fund is to be established for the purpose of keeping worthy pupils in school until they are graduated.

In every class, in grammar and high school alike, there are children, able, conscientious students, who drop out before the end of the year, not because they are tired of school, but because they must help to support themselves. Sometimes part-time work can be found for them, but the usual part-time job is irregular, and the pay poor and uncertain. Any teacher can quote a dozen instances of such children, every one of sufficient ability to make his continuation in school well worth while.

There was Raymond, for instance, oldest of six children, with only a few months to wait for his graduation day, a star scholar, an earnest reliable boy. Illness in the family, illness of his mother, illness of his father, made necessary some financial aid from Raymond. He was only too willing to share the family burdens, yet he sacrificed his diploma with a heavy heart.

LOWELL BLEACHERY IN $5,000,000 COMPANY

Negotiations are proceeding whereby five large converters of cotton cloth will combine with the Lowell Bleachery into a $5,000,000 enterprise, one which will be a prominent factor in national textile circles.

The name of the "National Fabric and Finishing Company," its proposed to bring together under one ownership and management, the following corporations:

Lowell Bleachery, with finishing companies purchased unfinished goods, many and Kallman-Newcomb company, of Lowell; and the Lowell Bleachery, with finishing companies purchased unfinished goods, finished them at the Lowell Bleachery and other converting plants, and resold them. Under the new regime, the same procedure will be followed, but with the elimination of similar work by the individual firms, effecting substantial economies in production and distribution.

A large proportion of the companies' manufactures has been cotton shoe linings; another, khaki cloth. Merchandise has been finished for the clothing, glove, publishing and other trades. Many new lines will be entered into upon completion of the merger. It is planned that consolidation will have a capital and surplus of approximately $5,000,000.

Personnel of the National Fabric & Finishing Company, as the new consolidation will be known when organized, plans are consummated, will include Sidney Coolidge and P. J. Kiernan of the Lowell Bleachery; Charles C. Hoyt, Julius Kallman, Herbert P. Hatch and K. H. Holbrook of Holbrook company; William A. Lippincott, Jr., and William K. Ballantyne.

It is planned that the principal office shall be at the corner of Lincoln and Essex streets, Boston, where Farnsworth, Hoyt company is now located. Branches will be maintained at New York, Philadelphia, Cincinnati, Chicago and St. Louis.

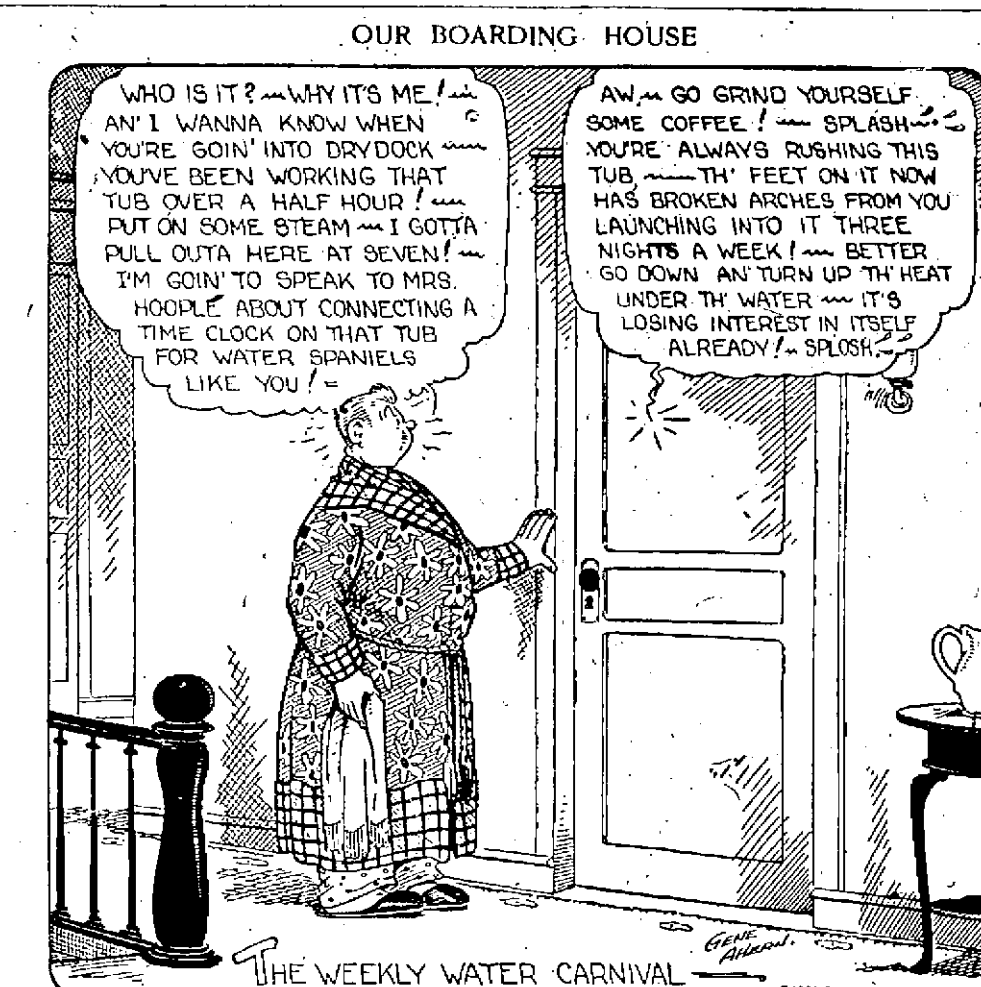

The board of directors of the Lowell Bleachery has sent to stockholders notices of a special meeting to be held at the office of the company on Bleachery street, Lowell, on Oct. 10. At this meeting, steps will be taken to prepare for the merger of the corporation in the general plan as announced. Pending the completion of the consolidation, each participating company will continue operating under its own business designation. Completion of the consolidation should take place within two weeks, it is predicted.

LOST HIS LICENSE AND REGISTRATION

At 3:30 o'clock this morning, Patrolman W. J. Conway arrested David S. Scarth in Stevens street for operating an automobile without a license or registration. The arrest followed a collision between Scarth's machine and a horse. In district court, Scarth said he had a license and registration, but lost both of them. His case was continued to Monday.

Assistant Superintendent of Water Department Attended Meeting in Rochester

Captain James Reynolds, assistant of the water department returned today from the 32nd annual convention of the New England Water Works association, held all week at Rochester, N. Y. The convention opened Tuesday morning with a formal welcome by Mayor and the opening address by David A. Hoffman of Milton, association president. Edward A. Fisher, consulting engineer of Rochester, then spoke on "The Water Supply and Other Interesting Features of Rochester."

On Tuesday Deputy City Engineer John P. Skinner told of Rochester's reservoirs and gravity conduit lines and he was followed by Stephen B. Storey who told of Rochester's meter reading, and billing system. Marshall B. Palmer of the Syracuse water bureau told of the system in his city.

On Tuesday leading engineers spoke on the infiltration galleries at the Des Moines water works, the use of reinforced concrete pipe in water supplies, and the Indian Creek Dam built by the use of compressed air. Improvements in public water supplies to typhoid fever and other intestinal diseases, present purification methods in Providence, and the use of chlorine in the treatment of respiratory diseases were discussed in the afternoon.

Thursday was devoted for the most part to reports and elections followed by a visit to Niagara Falls. On Friday the most interesting of several talks given was that by John E. Conley of the Norwood water department on the cleaning of driven wells by the use of compressed air. Capt. Reynolds left Rochester last night arriving home shortly before noon today.

FINED FOR SHOOTING LOWELL OFFICER

Special Officer Timothy Lynch of Lawrence, the man who shot Patrolman Owen S. Conway of this city on June 26, was fined $75 by Judge Joseph Walsh in Essex county superior court last Thursday. The charge was assault with a dangerous weapon.

Patrolman Conway testified that he did not wish to push the case and did not want to see the Lawrence man punished. Conway sustained a bullet wound in the shoulder as a result of being shot by Lynch at the latter's home on the night of June 26. He was visiting at the Lynch home and was endeavoring to put Mr. Lynch to bed when the shooting took place.

CONFESSED HE WAS ARMY DESERTER

When George McNally, 21, was arraigned in district court this morning on a charge of drunkenness, he admitted that he was an army deserter from Camp Sill, Oklahoma, and Camp Devens. He said he deserted the Oklahoma cantonment about five months ago, gave himself up at Devens and then deserted a second time. He was taken to Ayr today by Patrolman Joseph Farley.

ARREST NEAR IN MURDER CASE

Body of Man Found in Shaw-sheen River, Bedford, Identtified as F. A. Clements

Victim Turned From Ministerial Training to Run
Garage at Burlington

BEDFORD, Mass., Oct. 4.—A theory that Frederick A. Clements, who turned from a ministerial training in Newfoundland to run a garage at Burlington, was killed by a man after a quarrel over money matters occupied the attention today of the officials investigating his death. Better than an arrest would be made by night was expressed by one official.

Mrs. Clements, a spiritualistic medium, known as Madame Sanden, last night identified a body found in the Shawsheen river here Thursday night wrapped in sackcloth and weighted with metal as that of her husband. The woman told the police she had a premonition of danger to Clements and had warned him that his safety was menaced by a "dark man with a club."

Clements was last seen Sept. 24, business acquaintances and friends told the authorities. On Thursday boys fishing in the Shawsheen river discovered the body in seven feet of water. It had been wrapped in sackcloth, bound with wire and weighted down with a lifting jack and two automobile cylinder heads. The medical examiner said it had been in the water about two weeks and that the man had been beaten over the head with a club or hammer.

Clements, a native of Prince Edward Island, was about 60 years old.

NEIGHBORS BREAK IN, FIND WOMAN DEAD

BROCKTON, Mass., Oct. 4.—Neighbors broke into the home of Mrs. Fannie A. Albino, aged 65, who lived alone at 213 Prospect street, and found her lying dead across the radio table. The instruments were strapped to her ears.

Nearly was found a gas heater from which gas was pouring. The police believe death was accidental, caused by asphyxiation.

LOCAL MORTALITY RATE

There were 35 deaths in Lowell this week, the board of health reports, as against 32 and 38 for the two weeks immediately preceding. Six of this week's deaths were of infants and a like number were of children under five years of age. The death rate, based on the 1920 census of 112,763, is 16.14 this week as against 17.76 respectively for the two weeks immediately preceding. Two cases each of tuberculosis and infantile paralysis and one of measles were reported during the week.

If paint brushes are to be used for a while, moisten them with paraffin oil before putting away.

LOWELL DISTRICT COURT

New Kind of Auto Law Infraction on the List Today
—Other Cases

Samuel Stern faced a peculiar charge in district court this morning. An automobile which, unknown to him, had been stolen, was purchased by the defendant in good faith. When the police discovered the machine in his possession, it was found that he had not reported the sale as required by law. As it was the first of its nature to be presented here, Capt. David Petrie, who investigated it, consented to a plea of nolo and the case was placed on file.

Arthur J. Hanel was given a suspended sentence of two months in the house of correction for drunkenness. It was alleged that he attempted to throw himself into the canal at Merrimack and Suffolk streets last Saturday.

George Landry was found guilty of non-support and was given a direct sentence of three months in the house of correction.

Peter Wasyak failed to appear to answer a drunkenness complaint and was defaulted.

Felix Nedzwiecki, illegal keeping, was continued to next Saturday. James B. Conley, assault and battery, was continued to Nov. 15.

Patrick J. Doyle, was given a suspended sentence to the state farm, for drunkenness, on condition that he get out of town within 24 hours.

LOWELL SAILOR HONORED

John Hunt Named to Attend
Pharmacist School at Portsmouth, Va.

Lowell Boy is Now in Training at the Newport Naval Station

Another Lowell boy in training at the Newport naval station for service in the U. S. navy has been chosen by the authorities of the school as fitted for rapid advancement and has been ordered to attend one of the navy's many trade schools.

The fortunate sailor is John Hunt of 173 Fletcher street, who has been named to attend the pharmacist's school at Portsmouth, Va.

Hunt enlisted at the local station through Chief R. F. Frederick on Sept. 22 and immediately went to Newport. Upon commencing actual training, after the quarantine period was over, he was chosen from the ranks as an exceptional student and steps were taken to promote him.

Yesterday it became known that he had been promoted from apprentice seaman to hospital apprentice, second class, and was ordered to report within a few days at the pharmacist's school at Portsmouth, Va.

Recruits from Lowell in the navy service rank among the best, according to Chief Frederick, and of the 10 recruited here since he became officer-in-charge, but one has been dismissed from the service and none have deserted. Approximately 30 recruits have been chosen to attend trade schools and some of these have already completed the course and will become petty officers upon the completion of one year's service in the navy. Chief Frederick has been commended by officers in charge of recruiting in the Boston district and by training school authorities for the high class recruits who have come from his district since coming to Lowell.

SHOD FIRST HORSE WHEN HE WAS 9 YEARS OLD

When John Cadden, aged nine, shod his first horse in his father's blacksmith shop in County Cavan, Ireland, he was nourishing visions of leaving the Cadden home and the pastures, and journeying to America. John was unable to place a definite date on his ambition until eight years later, when notwithstanding his father's opposition, he sailed away from Irish shores for little old New York, never to return to his native land, though proud as always of Ireland and the county of his birthplace.

Today, the nine-year-old horsehoes' dream of western lands and seas labelled America the free, is a man of 78 summers and winters and proudly spending the autumn days of his life in Lowell—this favorite American place of employment. Although an expert shodder of all descriptions, from nules to stallions, race horses, Shetland ponies and Morgans and just plain everyday horses, John Cadden and handling the hammer and snags for 67 consecutive years in horse shoeing shops located in a score or more different cities and towns in New England, and has now decided to take a short vacation to see how it feels.

For 67 years the man from Ireland has worn the apron that denotes his trade. In some New England fields, when wages were good, he remained for long periods of time. In some cities, the weekly salaries were not up to the scale in vogue in nearby communities, and John Cadden would go to secure more money for his labor.

Mr. Cadden has labored at the forge in smithy shops in numerous cities and towns in Massachusetts, including Lowell. He worked in Worcester for some time, also in Newton and in Boston. He remembers the great Boston fire of 1872, which started on the night he was returning to Lowell from a horsehoes' job he had held for a some time in North Attleboro.

When he made his initial appearance in Lowell, was on Adams street, in St. Patrick's parish. Today the Cadden home is located where it has been for many years past—110 Chapel street.

More recent years, the veteran horsehoes' has been engaged in a play of different concerns still flourishing on several thoroughfares in sections of the city where horses abound more freely than they do in other quarters. In former days, before the automobile, blacksmith and shoeing shops ran as many as grocery stores on many a corner.

Mr. Cadden put it today. In other words, horsehoes' was a busy vocation and there were many of the shops and a swarm of shoers employed in the vocation in the days before Ford started something different.

In the later years, Mr. Cadden has worked in horsehoes' establishments on Cushing street, Lenox court, School street and Adams street. The Cahill shop of old was a favorite place of employment. The sons ran a shoeing business on a corner street and the father was located on a corner street. Mr. Cadden has been employed more recently by the John J. Donnelly estate, 9 Lenox court, located in the back Central district.

Mr. Cadden's health is very good indeed. His eyesight excellent and he can do a day's work at a corner as good as any man much younger. He has not been anxious to work every day, but when he wants to keep in trim, he goes over to Ahearn's or the Cushing street friend of many years standing, and goes to work.

The veteran horsehoes' has a host

DAVIS TO SPEAK AT PROVIDENCE

Democratic Presidential Nominee Made Six Speeches in New Jersey Yesterday

Says if Elected U. S. Will Be Represented in Disarmament Conference

NEW YORK, Oct. 4.—After his visit yesterday to New Jersey, where he made six speeches of his campaign, John W. Davis, democratic presidential nominee, today will go to Providence, R. I., where he will speak tonight. Enthusiastic crowds greeted Mr. Davis at all the cities in which he spoke yesterday. His address was Princeton, once the home of Woodrow Wilson, was the outstanding one of the day. In his eulogy of the late democratic president, Mr. Davis described him as one who "held up before the vision of mankind the light of the diploma of peace, and a new habit among the nations, that all the civilized races saw it, and believing, followed him, except his own."

"In this matter of foreign affairs," said the speaker, later in his address, "I do entertain a profound conviction that for the last five years America has been on the wrong road and that it is a road fraught not only with neglect of her duty, but with danger to her cardinal and her individual interests."

"I am not willing that the United States should stand alone outside of the diplomatic circle of the world. If I am president at that time, this nation will be represented in the disarmament conference in 1925."

CLEM SHAVER TALKS

Says Republican Claims Relative to Election of Bryan is Pure Bunk

NEW YORK, Oct. 4.—"Pure bunk," said Chairman Shaver, when asked about Chairman Butler's charges of a deal between the democrats and the western arm of the republican party, led by Senator La Follette, was that John W. Davis is going to be our next president. Mr. Butler has probably known for a month that the sentiment in this country was crystallizing against the election of Coolidge, and now admits that he may not be elected. Chairman Butler knows that there is no deal between the democrats and the progressive wing of the republican party. The people in this country can't be lulled to sleep by the silence of Coolidge, unable to defend the administration of his party, nor fooled by the American people's republican leadership. There is only one chance of getting a majority of the electoral votes, and that is John W. Davis. Chairman Butler knows that if there is no election, congress will elect Davis.

"The meeting at Madison Square Garden last night clearly demonstrated the rapidly growing Davis sentiment."

"I have every confidence that Davis will carry New York state, and Governor Smith will be re-elected by an unprecedented vote."

CANDIDATES FILE EXPENSE STATEMENTS

Expense statements of candidates in the recent state primaries were filed yesterday afternoon with the board of elections commissioners as follows:

Representative Henry Achin, Jr., candidate for re-election, $192.10. Representative Charles H. Slowe, candidate for re-election, $161.64. Patrick J. Neenan, nominee for representative, $51.00. Louis W. Richard, 493 Wilder street, defeated representative candidate, 15 cents.

All expenses incurred were for printing, postage, and advertising.

TAKEN TO STATE INFIRMARY

Adelaide Carroll, 26, of 139 Cambridge street, Charlestown, who was reported as missing from home a few days ago, was picked up in this city yesterday by Patrolman Jeremiah Donohoe, and because of her condition, she was taken to the state infirmary in Tewksbury.

of friends in the Chapel Hill section of Lowell. The man who has shod equines on both sides of the Atlantic ocean for a period of 67 years, has good stories to tell of the old days in the territory in which he now resides.

"My only regret is that so many of my old-time friends and associates are gone, but I am grateful that I have been allowed to remain in the hill and live in the heart of the city," said Mr. Cadden as he stood in the sunshine in the yard of 110 Chapel street and looked the appearance of the happy adventurer who has found life a not too serious problem, but full of goods things after all, including the friendships of fellow men, loyal and true down the years of the Cadden life in Lowell."
